ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—Admiral Jean Darlan flatly declared today that formidable French fleet units at Dakar, Alexandria and North African ports would join the British and United States fleets on the high seas to fight the Axis.

In an exclusive statement to this correspondent, the former commander of all of Vichy's armed forces now recognized by Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as high commissioner of French Africa, gave reasons for his dealings with the Germans in Vichy the past two years and, in answer to a question regarding Gen. Charles De Gaulle, Fighting French leader, expressed the hope that "all Frenchmen who are able to fight the Axis will do it in close union."

The pipe-smoking admiral made a written reply to questions presented by this correspondent shortly after he held his first conference with the Allied press since the fall of France.

In that conference he made the formal statement that "French Africa, with the Allies, must make the maximum military effort for the defeat of Germany and Italy" and he disavowed personal ambitions as his motive for joining the Allies.

Giving the first definite word of plans for the French naval units whose aid will give a great boost to Allied naval power, Dar-

RECORD DAY

Postoffice Handles New High In Christmas Mailing.

The Mansfield postoffice opened up its "second front" yesterday to accomodate crowds that set a high in mailing Christmas cards and packages this season.

"We had to open a second parcel post window to handle the tremendous amount of outgoing mail," Postmaster Herman E. Homberger said. He pointed out that this was the first time in the history of the department that additional parcel post facilities have been needed as long as eight days before Christmas.

Despite early morning mailing, postal officials expect a record amount of mail the balance of this week and Monday of next week. A sample of what is to come was indicated yesterday, the postmaster said, in the sale of 70,000 one and a-half cent stamps purchased for greeting cards.

CREWS SAVED

Transport Pilot Finds Aviators Near Desert Oasis.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa —(U.P.)— The crews of three American Douglas A-20 attack bombers, forced down in the desert near an oasis held by French troops, were rescued today by a Douglas transport plane.

The transport plane was piloted by Lieut. William Messengale, Ada, Okla.

To Get New Job?

Defeated for re-election in November, Senator Prentiss M. Brown (D.) of Michigan, above, is reported headed for a top-flight position with the federal government. It was hinted in some quarters that Brown would become an assistant to Economic Stabilization Director James F. Byrnes. An earlier report had it that Brown would succeed Leon Henderson as price administrator.

COLLEGE WAR PLAN OUTLINED

Army and Navy Reveal System They'll Use To Educate Qualified Men.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The army and navy announced today plans to contract for the facilities of a selected number of colleges and universities "where qualified young men in the services will be detailed for educational training."

Training for specialist assignments or as officers will be provided in these institutions, a joint announcement said. Candidates for the training so far as the army is concerned must come from the enlisted ranks or existing reserves, while youths in civilian life may be enrolled under the navy's phase of the program.

Generally, said War Secretary Stimson and Navy Secretary Knox, the program is designed to maintain a steady flow of young men suitable for specialized educational technical training for the army, navy, marine corps and coast guard.

They noted that "the recent amendment to the selective service and training act reducing the draft age to 18 will eliminate the principal source of men college students" in the colleges' normal way of functioning.

East Mansfield Fire Takes 300 Lives (Chickens)

Flames claimed 312 lives and destroyed an East Mansfield structure last night despite valiant efforts of central station firemen to extinguish the blaze which started from an overheated stove.

There was no panic of victims, merely huddled masses which stolidly awaited the onrush of the conflagration. There were no cries or shouting.

Loss was estimated by Sam Moore at $350 for the death of about 300 laying hens and 12 rabbits. Moore told Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger and Captain L. R. Zimmerman that he had inspected the heater shortly before the hen house burst into flames.

No one was injured at the home of Mrs. Minnie McCally, 581 West Fourth street, yesterday when a leaking pipe in a hot water heating system caused a slight boiler explosion, central station firemen reported.

Neighbors aroused by flames leaking from the chimney of Grace Episcoal church yesterday called central station firemen who reported there was no damage resulting when soot collected in the flue burned out.

ARMY STUDIES SHELBY SITE FOR AIR DEPOT

400-Acre Land Tract East of City Being Considered For Huge Army Station.

DETAILS HELD SECRET

Reports Based on Housing Check Indicate Big Staff To Be Needed For Project.

A 400-acre tract one mile north of Shelby was under consideration today as a possible site for a huge army air supply depot.

Capt. Glen E. Shaw, army engineer, said the site was regarded favorably by the government following surveys of a number of areas near Mansfield and Shelby in recent months, reports from Shelby said.

In Shelby yesterday to check on progress on the city's supplemental water supply system and survey housing facilities, Capt. Shaw said he was awaiting a directive from Washington before announcing selection of a site for the depot.

He said the limited water supply at Shelby was the only objection to the site along the Baltimore and Ohio railroad north of the city. It was pointed out, however, that ample water probably will be available after work is completed on a dam across the Black Fork creek near Shelby.

Shelby officials, it was understood, want the government project near the city because it would enable them to obtain priorities for materials needed to supplement the inadequate water supply system.

Although it was understood the government already has arranged to acquire three farms for the supply depot site, no property transfers had been filed today

SPEED SUPPLIES

Distillers Rushing Liquor To Ohio For Holidays.

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Distillers are accelerating deliveries of holiday liquor to Ohio, Jacob B. Taylor, state liquor director, said today.

The liquor department filed orders for more than 200,000 cases many weeks ago in anticipation of an all-time record Christmas rush.

"The flow of liquor to our warehouse is increasing," said Taylor. "In some instances distillers even volunteered to boost the quotas they had established for Ohio. The situation definitely is encouraging."

After Jan. 1 Ohioans are to purchase liquor under a card rationing program designed to spread available wartime supplies fairly.

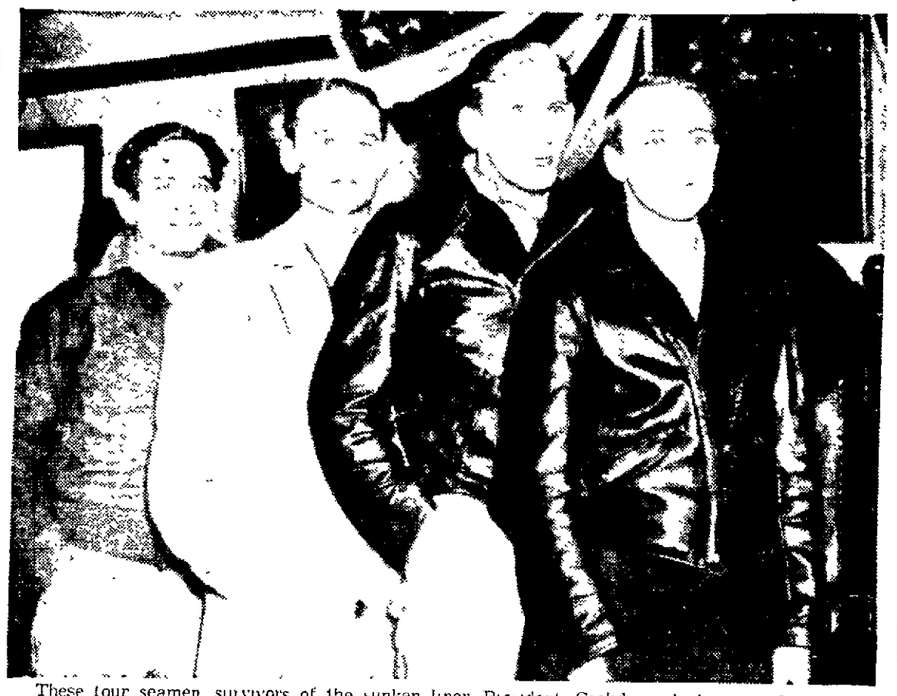
SOLDIER GUILTY

Convicted of Manslaughter in Shooting Near Camp.

WATERTOWN, N. Y. —(U.P.)—A 28-year-old Yukon, Okla., soldier was convicted today of manslaughter for shooting of another Pine Camp soldier in Watertown's public square last Dec. 7.

Pvt. James C. Fitch was found guilty by a general court martial of slaying Pvt. John Syabo of Toledo, O., and was sentenced to 10 years at hard labor, in addition to a dishonorable discharge and forfeiture of pay and allowances.

Say Navy Laid Course of Ill-Fated Transport



These four seamen, survivors of the sunken liner President Coolidge which went down in a South Pacific mine field while transporting troops, are credited with saying that the United States Navy laid the course which led the transport to her doom. The men are, left to right, Rafael Cooper, William Sheesley, Jack Vandeboom and Jack Barlow. Picture was taken in San Francisco.

BATES TO ASK SECOND LEAVE

Says He'll Return as Police Chief, Then Requests More Time For FBI Service.

Meade K. Bates plans to resume his duties as police chief here in the near future to protect his seniority and pension rights accruing from 19 years of service, but will seek a second leave of absence to continue, during the war emergency, his services as a special agent with the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Bates explained his position to The News-Journal today in a telephone conversation from the Cleveland FBI offices, definitely setting at rest conjecture in various quarters as to what his own desires are and what is permissible under the city's Civil Service commission regulations.

Members of the commission, after formally notifying Bates Dec. 1 that his year's leave expiring Jan. 14 could not be extended, have indicated they will approve a second leave if requested. Bates said today that he has submitted his proposal to FBI officials in Washington and as soon as their approval is obtained he will notify Mayor W. J. Locke as to when he

OPA GIVEN AN APARTMENT GIFT

Akron Woman Says She Can't Make Any Money On It.

AKRON — (U.P.) — Mrs. Pansy Gille, owner of an apartment house, today, in desperation, handed it over to the Office of Price Administration and told them to run it.

"The property is now yours, you can do anything you please. I'm making no money on it and it's causing me nothing but trouble," she told OPA representatives.

Mrs. Gille said her trouble started when the OPA prevented her from evicting a tenant whom she claimed had dumped rubbish in her newly-scrubbed hall.

TANK ASSEMBLY WORKERS QUIT

500 Refuse To Return To Work After Eating Lunch.

DETROIT — (U.P.) — Assembly of tanks at the Ford Motor company's Highland Park plant was interrupted today when approximately 500 workers refused to return after lunch.

A company spokesman said the tank line went down shortly before 11 a.m. Robert A. Lomasney, state labor relations board conciliator, hurried to the plant after his office had received a report on the disturbance from an army ordnance officer.

The Ford spokesman indicated the dispute may have developed from the layoff of three men several days ago for "fighting."

DRINKING CURBED

Canada Rations Liquor Supply and Bans Advertising.

OTTAWA (AP) Slashes in the amount of beer, wine and distilled liquors released for consumption in Canada and in their alcoholic content were ordered by Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King last night under the powers of the war measure act.

His order also banned liquor and beer advertising in the Dominion for the duration.

King decried an increase in beverage alcohol consumption since the beginning of the war which he said amounted to 60 per cent in beer, 25 per cent in wine and 37½ per cent in distilled liquors.

His order called for a reduction, effective Feb. 1, in distribution of beer by 10 per cent, wine by 20 per cent and spirituous liquors by 30 per cent.

BUTLER NAVY ENSIGN MISSING

Virgil Traxler on Casualty List; Parents of Yirga Seek Body's Return.

While the family of Pfc. Frank M. Yirga, 23, Mansfield victim of the St. Johns, Newfoundland, fire, were arranging today to have his body returned to Mansfield for burial, another Richland county serviceman was reported missing in action in the Southwest Pacific.

He is Ensign Harold Traxler of Butler, who was named by the Navy department in a message to Traxler's father, Virgil Traxler of Butler.

Ensign Traxler, graduate of the U. S. Naval academy in the 1942 class, left Norfolk, Va., late in August for service in the Pacific war area. Details of the action in which he was involved were not revealed.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Yirga, 543 Daisy street, parents of the Mansfield soldier who died in the Canadian fire Saturday night, acknowledged a War department telegram today and asked for additional information concerning his death so they can have the body brought to Mansfield for burial.

First word of his death was received yesterday by the family from newspaper dispatches which said he had been identified as one of three American soldiers in the more than 100 dead.

Ensign Traxler, who was graduated from Butler high school in 1937, was married last Aug. 1 to Miss Marjorie McCullough of Butler at Norfolk, Va.

British Bottle Up Nazis After Springing Trap

Germans Suffering Heavy Losses as They Try to Break Out; Berlin Admits Retreat; Allies Deal New Blows In Tunisia.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(UP)—British experts said today that Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces were in the worst plight of any German army since 1918.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—The Axis' fleeing columns in Libya have been cut in two and part of them, trapped between British forces, have suffered heavy casualties in an effort to break out, the British announced today.

This stroke in the hot chase across the desert was achieved yesterday, the Cairo communique disclosed, when Britain's Eighth army reached Wadi Matratin, about 65 miles west of El Agheila, and cut inland to the south across Nazi Field Marshal Rommel's retreat line.

Some armored formations were bottled up "and continue to be severely mauled" in an attempt to break out which already has caused them heavy losses, the communique added.

Rommel, who backed out of his defensible line at El Agheila without a fight, apparently to preserve his remnants as far as possible, thus may have been dealt a crippling blow to any hopes of getting a strong force safely into Tripoli for eventual union with the Axis armies in Tunisia.

On the opposite side of the Axis' narrowing last foothold on the south shore of the Mediterranean, ground forces in Tunisia stirred into new action and the Allies appeared to be preparing for a new drive as abating rains promised an end to the mud which has bogged down both sides.

The Morocco radio, saying it quoted authoritative sources, reported that Axis forces already were falling back from the region of Medjez-El-Bab, important highway junction at the gateway to Tunis and Bizerte.

This was the reverse of an earlier Vichy broadcast saying that Allied troops had withdrawn from Medjez-El-Bab, 35 miles southwest of Tunis.

"It can be said," the Morocco radio added, "that the course of the battle already is changing under the weight of Allied air superiority."

The German communique, for the first time, ackonwledged the renewal of Rommel's flight which it said was developing "according to plan."

Allied airpower also took a heavy toll on enemy bases in Tunisia. The Cairo communique said docks at Tunis and La Goulette were bombed again Tuesday and in a raid "which lasted more than eight hours."

The Italian communique said German raiders bombed Allied ports in Algeria.

Associated Press correspondent William B. King, in a dispatch written at the Tunisian front yesterday, said that a major battle apparently was in the offing.

King told of visiting a British lookout post atop a high hill on

DOOM: Japs Ordered to Hold Buna Positions to 'Last Man'

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Navy dive bombers striking at Japanese ships and installations at Munda on New Georgia island in the Solomons, hit and damaged one enemy destroyer or cruiser, the navy reported today, while Flying Fortresses engaged and destroyed 12 Japanese Zero fighters nearby.

(By United Press)

GEN. M'ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia — Forces in eastern New Guinea increased pressure today in what was left of the Buna front, where the Japanese defenders were under direct orders from Emperor Hirohito to resist to the last man.

The heaviest fighting was reported, in the daily communique, in the immediate Buna area, just south of the government station. Allied bombers and fighter planes continued their blasting of Japanese positions from Cape Endaiadere about three miles east of captured Buna, all the way up the coast to the Mambare estuary 40 miles northwest of Gona.

An explanation of the fanatical Japanese resistance in the Buna-Gona area, where the ratio of enemy dead to enemy prisoners was 40 to one, came in the interrogation of a 24-year-old lance corporal of Japanese mountain artillery, captured recently.

This prisoner said the defenders had been told that Emperor Hirohito wanted Buna defended to the last man.

Japanese officers told their men, the prisoner said, that when on Nov. 28 word reached the emperor of the imminent crisis at Buna, he asked that every man give his life if necessary, to hold it.

There was little official news from the front in the day's communique.

Vigorous action continued, a spokesman said against the 250 Japanese who were put ashore in the Mambare area Monday from

WARNING: 11 Nations Protest Nazi Cruelty, Issue Threat

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Led by the United States, Britain, and Russia, the governments of 11 countries, and the French national committee, today strongly condemned Hitler's "bestial policy of cold-blooded extermination" of the Jews in Europe, and warned that the Nazis shall not escape retribution for their crimes.

A statement released by the state department said that attention of the protesting governments has been called to numerous reports that German authorities in Nazi-ruled territories, not content with denying the most elementary human rights to the Jews, "are now carrying into effect Hitler's oft-repeated intention to exterminate the Jewish people in Europe."

Those condemning such persecution, in addition to the three major Allied powers and the French committee, included the governments of Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Greece, Luxembourg, Netherlands, Norway, Poland and Yugoslavia.

"The above mentioned governments and the French National committee condemn in the strongest possible terms this bestial policy of cold-blooded extermination,"

Hoover Proposes Formula to Make Real Peace After Victory

(By United Press)

CHICAGO — Former President Herbert Hoover proposed last night that the United Nations agree now to eliminate an armistice after victory and impose instead a 'conditional peace" to be followed by a cooling off period before a permanent "people's peace" is written.

Mr. Hoover, in an address delivered before the Chicago Executives club, said the essence of his proposals was to divide peace making into two stages.

"The first to be an instant 'conditional peace' that will turn the world toward political, economic and spiritual recovery without the delays of last time," he said. "And then that the world should take time to cool off and work out one by one and separately the solutions for lasting peace."

To do this, Mr. Hoover believed, the United Nations must agree in advance to the terms of the conditional peace and a subsequent program.

"They will need to impose the conditional peace and enforce it," he said. "Enforcement will not be difficult for immediately at the victory the enemy will obviously be required to surrender his arms."

Mr. Hoover said the declaration

NATIVE TROOPS FORM ISLAND MARINE UNIT

Good Fighters, Were Slow To Enlist Until They Saw Uniforms.

(By United Press)

A SOUTH PACIFIC BASE, Nov. 29.—(Delayed)—The only native troops now serving under the American flag are a group of bare-footed Polynesians who form a Marine corps battalion on this United States occupied island in the South Pacific.

The devil dogs of Polynesia, their officers told me today, are just as big and just as tough as their brethren from the mainland. Their forte is jungle fighting—they have been learning it from birth.

Developed like the famed Philippine scouts who gave heroic account of themselves on Bataan, those troops are directed by white commissioned officers but have their own non-coms.

The battalion is the only armed force in the service which does not wear shoes. If they have shoes when they enlist the shoes are taken away. Most of them never wore shoes, however.

The battalion was conceived by Marine officers before the United States entered the war. Recruiting was slow until the first few Polynesian Marines began walking the streets wearing red-piped caps, snowy white shirts, red sashes and khaki dresses with insignia on the hem. Then recruits showed up from all parts of the islands.

Rookies were trained at boot camps under conditions identical to those in the United States. The battalion was called up for active duty on Dec. 7, 1941.

Maj. Herbert R. Nusbaum of Los Angeles, battalion commander, said most of the men are employed on beach defenses and as guides and scouts. Their pay is the same as other Marines and they get the 20 per cent foreign duty pay even though this always has been their home.

"Ordinarily these Polynesians are lazy, happy-go-lucky people but when angered they become maniacal and are plenty nasty fighters," one officer said. "They can crawl through the jungle like a snake, know all there is to know about woodcraft, and are excellent jungle fighters. We are developing them into snipers."

Sgt. Sianava R. Seva'Aetasi was first to join the battalion, its first corporal and now its first sergeant. Son of a royal family of the islands, he is tattooed from knees to waist as a sign of royalty and manhood.

Capt. Quintin A. Bradley of Santa Fe, N. M., said the greatest difficulty with the troops is naming them. Each man has but one name which serves as family and given them. For purposes of identification, each rookie has to choose a new first name.

Mysterious Fruit Disease Menaces Orchards In West

LOGAN, Utah (INS)—The dreaded and little known "Western X" disease, a mysterious blight that attacks peach trees is raging almost unchecked in six Utah counties, pathologists of the state agricultural experiment station reported.

The blight, first discovered in Utah in 1939 is almost impossible to control because as the name "X" implies, scientists have not been able to solve the formula. "Western X" may be one disease or more. It may affect only peaches or other stone fruits. It may be controlled by breeding, treatments, or quick destruction of all infected trees.

All these questions may be answered by a long-range program of experimentation by associates of the department of plant pathology, Dr. B. L. Richards, chief pathologist of the agricultural station, declared.

Nomination Void

Senator Josh Lee (D., Okla.) above, had been nominated for membership on the Civil Aeronautics board by President Roosevelt. Lee was defeated for re-election last month. However, as Lee is still a member of the senate he is not eligible for appointment until after Jan. 3, when his term expires. His nomination has been withdrawn.

Plans Steps to Emphasize Need For Blood Donors

Definite action is to be taken next week by the Red Cross blood donor committee to impress upon the public the great need for blood donors from Mansfield and Richland county so that the monthly quota of 300 units can be met.

The county fell 100 pints short of its December quota Tuesday when the Cleveland mobile blood donor left for the laboratory in Berea with only 199 donations after a two-day visit. Tuesday's donations, 95, were the lowest of any day since the service was started. Donations Monday reached 104.

Although Tuesday's donations were low, rejections among the 115 volunteers were high. Twenty of the latter were excused due to colds and other physical ailments. Like the day before, a sizeable number of donors did not appear nor did they notify the Red Cross office that they wanted to cancel.

WOMEN AGAIN

RICHMOND, Cal.—(U.P.)—The Standard Oil company of California has just put 16 women to work in its refinery here as still operators. It is the first time women have been employed in this capacity as it requires not only some manual labor but a special aptitude for gauge reading and checking.

FREE FRENCH BRAVE DEATH IN TWO WAYS

Face It In Battle and Mock Laval's Sentence; Camps Are 'Bit of France.'

By WES GALLAGHER

FREE FRENCH ARMY HEADQUARTERS SOMEWHERE IN BRITAIN—(AP)—Across the table, the young airman who had been sentenced to death finished a second plate of soup. His appetite was even better than usual.

On my right a tanned 26-year-old captain who expected to be sentenced to death yawned in boredom.

These two men were typical of the 60,000 soldiers, sailors and airmen who fight and die in Britain, Libya, New Caledonia and Africa for the free French.

They are a varied company. Scar-faced foreign legionnaires fight side by side with 17 and 18-year old university students. Dark Senegalese march shoulder to shoulder with American youths brought up in New Jersey and Chicago.

They have one thing in common. If Laval's Vichy government uncovers their identity they are sentenced to death by a special court—sentence to be carried out if and when Vichy can lay hands on them.

On some rolling and hills not too far from London two years ago there were a few tents which housed the battered remnant of a defeated army—the once mighty French army.

Today over those same hills are spread hundreds of comfortable barracks, rifle ranges, anti-tank guns and ranges, machine shops for American built tanks and the arsenals for feeding Free French war efforts on fronts thousands of miles from England.

From this camp in the past two years have gone men to defend Bir Hacheim, to reinforce Japanese-threatened Pacific islands, to plod the jungles of Africa, to man warships in the Atlantic and to fly in Britain's home defenses or over the western desert.

Recruits straggle into camp a half dozen or dozen at a time. Some come by small boat across the channel, some from French colonies in distant parts of the world.

In the hills of England they find a little bit of France. Their homesickness is evidenced on the walls of their barracks. Pictures of relatives are plastered side by side with the cross of Free France. Large murals with the deft French touch show scenes at home or in the colonies.

Twice a week English lessons are given to everyone, but for the rest of the time the camp is as much a part of France as if it were in a Paris suburb.

French women in the army auxiliary service do the cooking. When they get through with the regular British army food ration it bears little resemblance to its counterpart served in British messes.

Officers wear the uniforms of their old regiments in France except when they don battle dress. Orders are given in French, and English is seldom spoken even in ordinary conversation.

TOOK OFFICER AT HIS WORD

Sergeant Told Him To 'Get Out' So Rookie Left.

CAMP UPTON, L. I.—(AP)—This soldier thought he had an easy way to get out of the army.

One of the camp's chaplains saw him in civilian clothes on a bus, on his way home. Asked where he was going, the soldier said:

"I got up this morning and I told the sergeant I had been in the army 12 days and that I was tired of it and wanted to go home. The sergeant said, 'Get out of here.' So I did."

SAVING CLUB TABLECLOTHS

New York Night Clubs Stock Up On Games.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Gin rummy isn't the only game played by New York's night club habitues. The scale runs all the way from turn-of-the-century Flinch, bridge, backgammon and checkers down to such ultra modern games as military strategy, commando raids, geography and whatnot.

To save wear and tear on tablecloths, numerous clubs have stocked up on games, and the demand has grown so great that one of the largest manufacturers has instituted a special department for clubs and restaurants.

Damage to railway property by fire in 1941 was the largest in any year since 1924.

THEATERS

Most of the stars in "Springtime in the Rockies," the Ohio attraction, won recognition on the stage before appearing in pictures. Charlotte Greenwood, the elongated comedienne, Edward Everett Horton and Cesar Romero were playing on Broadway long before Carmen Miranda, a comparative newcomer from Brazil who carries one of the leads in the picture, made her first appearance in New York. Betty Grable, John Payne and Harry James and His Music Makers are among the other top attractions in this colorful musical film "shot" at Lake Louise.

"Thru Different Eyes," a murder mystery tops the bill at the Ritz. Mary Howard is in the cast. "United We Stand," shares the bill.

The little known private life of an American literary genius furnishes subject for the Madison attraction, "The Loves of Edgar Allen Poe," starring John Shepperd. Like Poe, Shepperd was born and reared in the South, and was chosen for the role from a large number of Hollywood leading men. Linda Darnell and Virginia Gilmore play the two women in Poe's life with Miss Darnell enacting the Baltimore belle, Virginia Clemm, who wed Poe. Jane Warwell and Frank Conroy are in the cast. "Friendly Enemies," is the co-feature.

Hal Roach's comedy of camp life, "Hay Foot," opens at the Park theater today with William Tracy and Joe Sawyer in the leading roles. Tracy appears as "Dodo Doubleday," a man with a prodigious memory and a penchant for getting into trouble. Elyse Knox plays the beautiful damsel who believes in him. James Gleason and Noah Beery, jr., are in the supporting cast. The Three Mesquiteers are featured in "Gauchos of Eldorado," the co-attraction.

On Page 1 of the paper each day you will find a list of the advertisements to be checked that day.

All you have to do is to decide each day which Large Ad, which Medium Ad and which Small Ad you think will do the advertiser the most good. Just write three names on this blank each day.

$750.00 in awards go to those readers whose selections are nearest to what the majority of readers think. Every week is a separate survey with a dozen or more cash awards each week.

Every member of any family may send in one answer each week and there are many awards each week, but only one award for a good answer will go to any one family in any one week.

I THINK THESE ADS WILL DO THE ADVERTISERS THE MOST GOOD.

You are NOT required to write a letter to receive an award.

The awards are decided on the selections above. We would really appreciate it, though, if you would write a note saying what you DO NOT LIKE and . . . also . . . WHY YOU LIKED some of the good ads.

We sincerely want your suggestions and ideas of how we may improve our advertising service for your benefit. Write your letter in your own way! It's the thoughts and suggestions that matter. You are not being "judged" by your letters. Actually they have nothing to do with the awards . . . but . . . they will be helpful by giving additional information to our merchants.

Your criticisms and suggestions will be given to the merchants to help them to improve their advertisements BUT the merchants will NOT be given the names of those who write the letters. This is so you may say just what you really think without embarrassment.

Is the war writing finis to Massillon's participation in big time football, or are the Tigers using the war as a means of stepping gracefully out of the big time picture?

Or is Massillon merely bowing to temporary expediency forced by the war, and arranging next year's football schedule on a short mileage basis with the expectation of returning to the big time when peace time returns?

Without benefit of inside dope, your guess is as good as the next one on these three questions.

War transportation regulations automatically cut such big intersectional games as the Lincoln, Neb., tilt of last season and Marblehead, Mass., game of 1941 off the Massillon schedule.

Now comes word that the Tigers are reducing mileage by booking games for next fall with schools close to Massillon, and has already signed Canton Lincoln and Canton Timken in addition to Canton McKinley.

All Massillon needs to do now to have a complete Stark "county league" schedule is book Canton Lehman. Alliance, of course, is already on the 1943 slate.

Explanation for the scheduling of the Stark county teams is that Massillon is cutting many "unpatriotic miles" from its schedule next season.

Well, that's a good explanation, and one which shouldn't be questioned. Now we'll see what unpatriotic miles are eliminated. The ones to Steubenville, maybe? That would also eliminate a lot of worry in Tigertown.

It's no secret that the famous Massillon system of developing football players last season ran smack up against the hard rock that has broken many systems—lack of material.

Massillon still had a great starting team, but was short on reserve strength, and that lack of reserves proved costly in the defeat at the hands of Canton McKinley.

The Tigers won't have too many experienced gridders returning next fall, and most of those will be subject to the draft. So the "backyard" schedule now being lined up with Stark county teams may not be out of line with the Tiger strength of 1943.

Oh, yes, Mansfield will be on the Massillon schedule next fall, since the Tygers owe the Tigers a game at Massillon on the second half of a home-and-home agreement.

Batting Averages Decline Rapidly

NEW YORK —(AP)— Batting averages in the National league are shrinking toward the vanishing point the official figures showed today.

The 1942 records just released by league president, Ford Frick disclosed the combined hitting of all the 265 players who took part in the senior circuit's games last season was 249 a decline of nine points from 1941 and a drop of 23 points in the last three years.

Ernie Lombardi of the Boston Braves, who bagged the batting title for the second time in his career, finished with a .330 mark, 13 points less than Brooklyn's Pete Reiser in 1941.

Similarly the St. Louis Cardinals, who had the best club average in the league and 268 four points less than the Dodgers of the year before.

In 1939 the Cardinals clouted at a .294 clip and the league averaged .272. But the following year the league dropped to .261 and the Pittsburgh Pirates leading batters as a club averaged .276.

Ceiling on Bowling Rates Set

September, 1941, Prices Ordered Back.

By BILL ZIMMERMAN

WASHINGTON—(INS)—OPA Chief Leon Henderson today Chief Leon Henderson today rolled a perfect strike, ordering a general reduction in bowling charges which will result in a saving of about $2,000,000 to the 16,000,000 pin advocates throughout the country.

* *

At the same time, Henderson took action to keep billiard and pool players from being placed behind the eight ball. Maximum charges for billiards and pool were fixed at last March levels.

Henderson pointed out that members of the armed forces and war workers by the thousands find relaxation and recreation in rolling or shooting a game and said that the action was taken to insure that they are not overcharged.

Ceilings for bowling are based on September 1941 charges, plus an allowance for recent cost increases. The maximums represent a national average reduction of one cent for every three games of league bowling and a half cent a game in open bowling.

The three games were placed under the OPA's services regulation in an amendment, effective Dec. 23, and a supplementary regulation was issued setting up special rules governing bowling prices.

The supplementary regulation provides that the highest price for league bowling shall be the maximum price charged for each price classification in September 1941, plus 10 cents in the case of duck pins and candle pins, and seven cents in the case of ten pins, for each group of three games.

For open bowling the maximum price is fixed at the highest price charged for each classification in September 1941, plus four cents for duck pins and candle pins and three cents for ten pins, for each game.

Beginning Jan. 22 each bowling alley must post its ceiling prices prominently, which marks the first time OPA has made a general requirement for price posting for a "service."

Alleys are also required to continue all special rates given to various classes of both league and open bowlers, such as service men, students, women and children, all special rates based on time of bowling and those based on days of the week. Billiard and pool hall proprietors also are required to continue special prices for different classes of players.

Baker Hired as Cleveland Coach

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Del Baker, replaced three weeks ago by Steve O'Neill as manager of the Detroit Tigers was back in baseball today as coach of the Cleveland Indians.

The ex-Tiger boss succeeds Oscar Melillo who decided to retire from baseball in favor of a war job at which he has been working since the close of the 1942 season.

The acquisition of Baker provides Manager Lou Boudreau with a strategy board of two experienced managers. Burt Shotton, former pilot of the Philies, is the other.

Shotton's departure to become a coach and heir-apparent to Leo Durocher's managerial job in Brooklyn has been expected by many observers since Branch Rickey left the St. Louis Cardinals to oversee the Dodgers. Rickey always has thought highly of Shotton who managed the Cards' Columbus farm for six years.

Baker long has been known as one of the smartest coaches in the game. He has been credited with uncanny skill at discovering the little tricks and mannerisms by which opposing pitchers tip off their deliveries.

Baker guided Detroit to a pennant in 1940, beating out the Indians by one game in the hottest American league race in recent history.

DEATH TAKES VET GOLF PROFESSIONAL

DAYTON—(INS)—Golfdom today mourned the loss of one of the most colorful professionals the country has ever known, with the passing of Alexander (The Nipper) Campbell, 65, who was found dead in bed. He had suffered with a heart ailment for some time.

Campbell, one of the first teachers to come to the United States from Scotland, began his career as a pro at the exclusive country club at Brookline, Mass. in 1896. During his 20 years there, he developed Francis Ouimet, a caddy, who in 1913, startled the golfing world by becoming the first amateur to win the national open championship.

Rockets, Penguins Cop Easy Victories

(By Associated Press)

The Toledo Rockets and Youngstown's Penguins were hot on the heels of the pace-setting Bowling Green Falcons today in the battle for Ohio's collegiate leadership.

The Rockets and Penguins both won easily last night from out-of-state opponents to give each squad a record of four wins and no defeats and put them second to Bowling Green in the title race. The Bee-Gees have won six straight.

Youngstown's sensational center, Leo Mogus, flipped in 43 points to lead the Penguins to an 81-44 victory over visiting Grove City (Pa.)

His performance boosted his season's mark to 115 points and gave him second place in the race for individual Buckeye honors. Bowling Green's Wyndol Gray is leading with 137 in five games.

Toledo stayed in the championship race by trouncing Tri State of Indiana 62 to 29 at Toledo. Five other Buckeye quintets saw action last night. Wooster thumped John Carroll, 50-38 at Cleveland. Oberlin downed visiting Fenn college 54 to 27. Ohio university beat Marietta, 48 to 28, at Athens and Western Reserve university lost to Syracuse, 52 to 21 at Syracuse.

NEW YORK—(AP)—In keeping with that recently-revived idea of splitting the major baseball leagues into eastern and western groups, this corner offers a simple solution to the manpower shortage in sports . . . It's merely to use fewer players on a side. . . . Before you start giggling, remember that football started out with 25 men on a side, eventually was reduced to 11 and they say this six-man football played by schools that can't muster full teams isn't bad at all. Hockey used to be a seven-man game . . . Basketball tried seven, eight and nine-man teams before settling on five.

County Teams Play Friday

Three Games Booked Before Long Vacation.

Three games are on the Richland county high school league cage card tomorrow night, and then the loop hoopsters take a rest from championship competition until after the holidays, resuming play Jan. 8

There will be no undefeated teams clashing in tomorrow night's bucket tossing soirees, as Bellville travels to Lexington, Shiloh to Butler, and Ontario to Union.

Of the six teams, Lexington, with a 26-17 victory over Shiloh last week, and Butler, upset winner over Ontario 24-21, are the only ones still boasting perfect records as they go into their second week-end of play.

Union was edged by Lucas last week, 29-26, and Bellville was swamped by Madison 36-14.

Lexington and Butler will be favored tomorrow night over Bellville and Shiloh, but the Union-Ontario tilt at Union promises to be a close battle with no favorites picked.

CLEVELAND BARONS FINALLY WIN GAME

PITTSBURGH—(UP)—Bill McKenzie scored two goals and came up with an assist to lead the Cleveland Barons to a 6 to 2 triumph over the Pittsburgh Hornets here Wednesday night in a western division battle of the American Hockey league.

TAKE LAST DRILL

ATHENS, Ga.—(INS)—The University of Georgia Bulldogs today were to don football togs for the last time before reaching Pasadena, Cal., where they meet the U. C. L. A. Bruins in the Rose Bowl New Year day. The squad will depart at 5:30 a. m. tomorrow.

CALLEN NAMED BEST OF WOMEN ATHLETES

NEW YORK—(AP)—The experts taking part in the Associated Press poll may not know their women athletes well, but nobody can accuse them of not having an eye for pulchritude.

Asked to name their first, second and third choices of the outstanding women athletes of the fading year, the experts by an overwhelming vote selected beauteous Gloria Callen, the Nyack, N. Y., school girl swimmer, as No. 1.

Yunckers and Globes Win

Both City Loop Tilts Decided By 7 Points.

Yuncker Sports and Globe Steel continue undefeated in the Y. M. C. A. City basketball league after last night's games in which Yuncker's defeated Westinghouse 17-10 and Globe won from Athletic Supplies 37-30.

Globe took a seven-point lead in the first quarter, 14-7, and held on to that margin through the next three stanzas. Long shots by Flick Flockenzier kept the Supplies in the ball game and had the Steelers worried.

Yuncker's put up an air-tight defense that limited Westinghouse to two points in each of the first two periods, and blanked them in the finale.

After an 8-point splurge in the initial quarter, Yuncker's also had difficulty connecting with the hoop.

Flockenzier got 15 points for Athletics, and Hager 13 for Globe to take league scoring honors.

WILL HARRIDGE NOT INTERESTED IN PLAN

CHICAGO—(INS)—Will Harridge, president of the American league, failed to get excited today over the revival of the suggestion that the two baseball leagues split up into east and west circuits to curtail travel next season as a wartime measure.

"I doubt, even if the two circuits could be altered as proposed, that many rail miles could be saved," Harridge said.

DINA CASHMAN + + +

By Kathleen Norris

(Copyright, 1942.)

CHAPTER XII

At 7 o'clock she descended the stairs; Rogers came out of the library to meet her. The fact that for one full minute he had not the slightest idea who she was was perhaps as honest a tribute to her appearance as could have been paid her.

She saw admiration in his eyes before he spoke.

"Geraldine!" he exclaimed.

He caught at her hand, holding her off the better to see her.

"Why, good heavens," he said, "What on earth have they done to you? Good—good—my God!" Still holding her hand, he led her into the library, laughing triumphantly.

She knew he was immensely pleased; responsive warmth stirred even in her own frozen heart.

"Isn't it beautiful?" she said, spreading her skirts.

"Yes," he spoke absently, thoughtfully. "Turn around," he said. "Who did your hair?"

"I did. But I can easily change it. I can put it down again. Sometimes I pin it up that way to make me look older."

"I don't want you to look a bit different," he said musingly, his eyes moving over her in intense satisfaction. "You look exactly right. I must congratulate Bucket and whoever sold you the gown. Now, you'll remember the general plan, won't you? No conversation."

"Dumb," the girl agreed briefly.

"No, not dumb. With those high cheekbones of yours and the way your eyes are set, you'll never look dumb. But be mysterious. You might smile, shrug. 'I'm not bothering with any of you!' That sort of thing. Now one thing more. Someone is going to ask you where you came from. What are you going to say?"

"Russia," Dina suggested promptly. The man widened his eyes, laughed approvingly.

"Russia. After the Revolution. Escaped through Vladivostok."

Dina considered this.

"I think not," she said. "I wasn't alive at the time of the Revolution. I'd better say I've just escaped."

"Fine. But if you're just out of Russia, how did you get here?"

"Well"—Dina's look was anxiously helpful—"you said mystery," she offered, hesitating. Again he laughed.

"'Mystery' it is," he agreed. "You're just from Russia, Miss Cashman? How very interesting! How'd you get out?"

"Very complicated," Dina said slowly.

"You speak Russian, of course'," Rogers Holland pursued.

"'Very little'," she answered the imaginary question seriously. "'So many years I was with my English connections'," she added.

"Excellent!" the man cried, rubbing his hands in satisfaction. "If you'll just remember to answer slowly. Or don't answer at all."

"They'll think I'm bored," the girl protested.

"Let them! Everybody worries about a bored person. Now sit there in that blue chair; lean your head against the back and put one foot up against the stool. That's right. Take that position whenever you can. This husband of Aline's is an artist, and it's highly possible that you'll do something to him when his eyes light on you."

"And is he rich, Mr. Holland?"

"Wait a minute! Are you to call me that?" he questioned, considering. "Yes, I think you should," he decided. "You're less than half my age; you haven't known me very long; I can call you Geraldine, but you aren't quite so familiar yet. You asked me if Aline's husband is rich," Rogers continued. "No, he hasn't a cent. And she has only what Polock gave her in the way of stocks or bonds—whatever it was she lost most of it."

"And of course Rosenstirn's alimony stops like a shot now. That's what interested her in me, my dear," the man went on. "Until now Aline has always had an eye to the main chance. This is her first venture in true love. They're to live in his studio, back of Los Altos somewhere, and he's to paint portraits—I don't know whose!—and keep her amused.

"I shouldn't think a person who's been rich and traveled a lot would be happy very long that way," Dina said thoughtfully.

Rogers did not answer. He sat watching her idly for a minute and then asked abruptly:

"Did you hear from Vere?"

"Yes." Her color fluctuated.

"He wrote," she said. "I had the letter when I got home the day I came to see you."

"What'd he say? Why didn't you tell me?"

"That there is no use my going East," Dina said steadily.

"That's his mother," Rogers observed after a minute.

"His mother was there. I wrote him at Christmastime that I—that I was afraid. They went east, he and she, and he's written me now that I'm just imagining things—not to come."

"Excellent!" the man cried, rubbing his hands in satisfaction. "If you'll just remember to answer slowly. Or don't answer at all."

"They'll think I'm bored," the girl protested.

"Let them! Everybody worries about a bored person. Now sit there in that blue chair; lean your head against the back and put one foot up against the stool. That's right. "His mother was there. I wrote him at Christmastime that I—that I was afraid. They went east, he and she, and he's written me now that I'm just imagining things—not to come."

"Did he say so?"

"Yes. He wrote that he was sorry I was bothered and that his mother was sure I was mistaken," Dina said in a level voice devoid of feeling.

"That sounds like Caroline," the man said almost with triumph. "That's Caroline. What else?"

"That his father might take him to South America and that I wasn't to worry." The girl finished the statement quietly and sat staring ahead of her like a person in a dream.

"As a matter of fact you're not mistaken—eh?" Rogers asked.

"No."

"You seem to take this very quietly, my dear."

Her eyes moved to his, and he saw that they were no longer a child's eyes; they were infinitely grave.

"I have to," she said. "I think I've known from the beginning that it would be this way. Not—not that Sunday that we came down from Paradise Valley and we talked all the way. But since. Ever since. I know that it was liking a girl—having a crush on on her, to him, and that it's something that will stay with me all my life. A human being that I'm responsible for. And I'm going to be responsible for it," Dina went on in a firmer voice.

"I don't know just how I'll start, but once I get started I'll be all right. I'll have to go away from home; I won't see my sisters and brothers any more. But that's what happens to girls like me."

"A boy, unfortunately," Rogers said slowly, "feels that he is very lucky if he can get out of a predicament like this. He's only too willing to forget it, to believe that it isn't serious. That's what girls don't know."

"Girls do know. They know," Dina said.

"I can only say that I think you're damn spirited and plucky," the man observed. Dina moved heavy eyes to his.

"I have to be," she answered. "I would like to get out of it too, if I could. I've always thought myself—I've always been—I've never been the sort—" Her voice thickened and she fell silent.

"I believe you," Rogers said. "And you're how old? Nineteen? Well keep your chin up; here comes the vanguard!"

There was a stir of laughter and voices in the hall. Hinz began to show in the guests; five of them, and then two, and two, and three, and four.

They came in cold and gay and noisy; two quite elderly men, two elderly wives, a pretty girl Dina's age and the rather uninteresting looking young man she was going to marry, a younger couple, a countess who spoke broken English, a man who had evidently won some sort of tournament and who was under a constant fire of congratulations.

Last of all, when everyone else had had cocktails and canapes and had settled into groups, the Andrew Havenses came. The man looked the artist, the hair on his handsome blond head just a trifle long, his evening clothes just a trifle baggy. He was a tall man with a pleasant laugh and a big firm jaw; his skin was browned, his hands long, fine, and nervous. He seemed quite at ease among all these strangers.

The woman, now for the third time receiving good wishes as a bride, was perhaps three or four years older than her new mate. At thirty-four she was at the peak of her beauty, and an exotic beauty it was.

Her hair was raven black, plastered to her head; the skin of her arms and throat and her proud, lovely face was all of a smooth creamy texture; her lips were crimson and her eyes a strange dove blue, heavily lashed in black. The trailing gown she wore carried out a general impression of Oriental aristocracy; it was wrapped about her in a sheath of peacock-blue brocade patterned in darker blue, silver, and black, and clasped with glittering shields of jewels. In her ears she wore heavy pendants of pearls.

She came in with a royal effect of entrance; was instantly surrounded and kissed by the men and women alike, for to all of them this was her first appearance since her runaway wedding.

"Is anyone speaking to me?" I ma heard her demand from the center of the circle. "Billy! Olive! this is Andy Havens, and you'll all please to like him very much and have your portraits painted by him next week!"

"Aline, you're more beautiful than ever!" a woman said.

"Happiness, darling, happiness! We're living on nothing, and my Hushed little face will soon be bending over a dishman, but I really do like the creature, and so I don't care!"

She was face to face with Rogers; she looked up boldly.

"Toppy, you've got to like my husband," she said.

"I've liked all your husbands, Aline," Rogers said in the silence, with a bow.

Dina saw the smooth alabaster of her face flush faintly; she came back at him promptly.

"Yes, and I thought for a while that I was going to like your second wife immensely! I mean me," Aline said.

There was a shocked little ripple of relished laughter from the circle that had more or less unconsciously grouped itself about the two.

"I never liked her, really," Rogers countered. And again there was a laugh.

"She wasn't very nice," Aline said with a dangerously quiet smile.

"I think everyone knew it but herself!" the man suggested sweetly. "You know how it is."

"Indeed I know how it is, Toppy," Aline finished the exchange on so significant a note that suddenly the laughter went out of it, and as she turned superbly away Dina knew that she had scored. Toppy! That had probably been her little pet name for him. Rogers might join in the laugh that greeted Aline's latest hit, but Dina saw the shadow that crossed his face.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD OHIO, THURSDAY DECEMBER 17 1942.

If there is one clear thing that has emerged from all the troubled thinking and confusion of the last decade it is this: The American people believe in full production and full employment. These we can have in time of peace as well as in time of war. These we must have if America is to take its proper place and carry its responsibilities in this community of nations.—Thomas E. Dewey.

Helping Others at Christmastime

MORE PEOPLE in this community are able to provide for their own Christmas needs this year than last—but there are still several hundred families who will need help in securing the essentials of a Christmas dinner and in making the holiday as pleasant as it should be for everyone in this free and fortunate America.

It has been planned that the Salvation Army act as a clearing house, during this holiday season, in assembling lists of needy families and supervising the distribution of food and other necessaries.

"Adopting" a family, and supplying its needs for Christmas, is being featured as a part of this year's activities and many organizations and individuals are co-operating in this humanitarian plan.

Not all families, or children, who would appreciate some friendly remembrance on Christmas, are in actual need, and there may be some whose names are not on any list but whose Christmas could be made happier by the thoughtful act of a neighbor, friend or acquaintance.

Children, and lonely older folks, should be especially remembered at Christmastime. This is particularly important this year and Christmas will be made brighter for all those who contribute in some way to brighten it for those who are less fortunate.

Too Many 'Units of Government'

DEMANDS of war provide an entirely satisfactory explanation of present heavy tax burdens, but it should be kept in mind, for postwar meditation—and possible action—that taxpayers' troubles through a number of years have been due mainly to existence of unnecessary and overlapping units of government.

With but 48 states there are no fewer than 165,000 governmental bodies in the United States. These include counties, incorporated cities and villages, towns and townships, and school districts, besides 8,382 special districts, like those established to look after roads, bridges and housing. The figures are compiled, through 1941, by Prof. William Anderson of the University of Minnesota.

What happens is that every citizen is a member of at least three, often more, of these governmental units. All have officials, and all are supported by taxes. In many cases they entirely overlap, as in Massachusetts, where Boston and Suffolk county cover exactly the same territory with two sets of officials. One could be abolished with great advantage to the taxpayer.

That is where his money goes. The one encouraging feature is that ten years ago the situation was worse. There were 175,000 units instead of 165,000. But much more than this must be done before there is real relief for the payer of taxes.

Mansfield Victim of St. Johns Fire

BY A STRANGE quirk of fate, the life of a Mansfield resident was lost in each of the two disastrous fires in recent weeks—the Boston night club holocaust and the St. Johns, Newfoundland, catastrophe.

This tragic coincidence emphasizes the present vast spread of local young people over this country and throughout the world. Never before, in advance of Christmas, has the interest of families and friends extended to so many faraway places as now, nor have assurances of safety, and holiday greetings, been so eagerly awaited in so many Mansfield homes.

Such sorrowful messages as that which came yesterday to Mansfield parents who had been looking forward to their son's return home on a Christmas furlough are recognized as an inescapable part of the tragedy of war and its associated dangers.

A resolution suitable for every day, and for the new year, would be that each will do all within his power to help bring the war to the quickest possible victorious end, so that there may be no unnecessary sacrifice of lives.

Idealistic Pattern for World Peace

WHAT to look forward to in the future is in part the theme of a new book, "Our Fighting Faith," published by President James B. Conant of Harvard university. He says:

"Hope will to peace of free democratic countries has been proved during the last three years beyond doubt or question. A free people will not readily engage in a modern war. Hence, if freedom is to be protected once the Axis powers are beaten, potential aggressors must be free to strike.

"An armed association of free societies must stand ready, once this war is over, to serve together if need be, not to impose their form of government on other people, but to prevent the growth of new challenges to their freedom. If this is done without malice on the one hand and without seeking the refuge of illusions on the other, we may hope that international order will be restored and that our children's children may walk boldly and with confidence along the enduring paths of liberty and peace."

And there you have a clearly sketched picture of what an ideal living place this earth might be made IF all human beings can be brought to the level of personal behavior, honorable dealings and consideration for others, which have long been accepted as principles but which are yet to be attained in practice—except in rare instances.

Much home missionary work will need be done before what is designated as "human nature" can be made to fit such an alluring academic pattern.

Study of the Japs is leading some unscientific persons to conclude that the human race is reverting to the ape class—but it's as reasonable to conclude that the Japs are merely at an in-between stage of advancement.

Passing around as a suggested theme song in connection with the warning that there'll be whisky rationing after the first of the year: "I'm dreaming of a tight Christmas."

Somebody complains that "there's too much education"—but what he complains of is not "education."

Why can't the soy bean be crossed with the kola nut to give it a caffeine content?

Postwar Policing to Be Huge Job

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — United Nations statesmanship is not making the big mistake today that the Allies' leaders made during and for quite a while following the last war.

That mistake lay in the assumption that licking the enemy permanently ended outlaw rulerships' attempts at world sandbaggery and slaughter. Past history ought to have taught students that a war can be fought in a succession of chapters, with pretty long pauses between 'em, like the celebrated 30-year conflict in Europe. The trouble with that incident was that it occurred so long ago (away back in the Middle Ages) that it had been forgotten, for practical current consideration by our generation's strategists.

Nineteen eighteen isn't so remote but that it's recalled at present.

Kaiser Wilhelm having been squelched, it was taken for granted that Germany was no further danger. Japan, in that era, wasn't an Occidental consideration. Italy's civilized yet, but for Benito Mussolini.

Accordingly, the Germans having capitulated, the 1918 supposition was that mundane relationships had regulated themselves, to STAY so.

Now it's recognized that things have got to be policed indefinitely.

How to do it, though, is a good bit of a puzzle.

Limited Co-operation.

The proposition would be simple enough, if all peoples would co-operate, but how's a country like Germany to be trusted to do its honest, disinterested share of policing? And yet, what IS going to be done with it? It can't be exterminated. Even Japan can't be. As to Italy, putting Duce Mussolini in a bughouse will be insufficient.

Okay! What's the program?

It doesn't seem practical to incorporate the democracies' military forces into an international lineup, inclusive of all the rest of 'em.

The Italians'll remain respectable and law-abiding. That's agreed.

The Japs, while their existing military class survives, unquestionably will have to be policed everlastingly, similarly to any other gang of thugs and assassins.

What, then, can be promised toward capable world-policing, from this war's end on into another 1,000,000 years or so?

Germany isn't to be relied on, for as much as a couple or three decades.

Italy, however good its intentions, is inefficient.

The Japs (with a nice population personally) are run by a government that it is impossible to deal with.

Having licked these folk, how KEEP 'em so?

The subject was much discussed at the recent convention of the National Association of Manufacturers in New York city.

The idea was compacted very efficiently in a speech by Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota. He wants an international police force, but he doesn't want Axis participation in it for the time being. It's to be, according to his reckoning, a United Nations outfit for some while to come.

In short, Germany's to be on probation for a considerable spell.

Italy's reform will be accepted with little hesitancy.

No Trusting Samurai.

Japan never'll be trusted with its Samurai still in charge—and that's liable to be on into the forever. However, there always are toughs of that type to be reckoned with.

Anyway, we'll require a large army, according to Gen. George C. Marshall.

The dope is that the Japs won't collapse, whatever happens to the Nazis.

There's a distinction between their rulerships and their people.

Indeed, their rulership may not collapse when the Japs do, nationally.

This doesn't mean that the Mikado-ship won't quit and end it all.

We may have a war with Japan for quite a while after we've disposed of Herr Hitler.

And after it's nominally ended, will it STAY ended?

That efficacy of that policing process remains to be tested.

The next generation'll know.

It'll be interesting to watch 'em in the 1950's or so.

Give Me the Power

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

MY DEAR—This is going to be a strange sort of a letter. It's not easy to write something out of the depths of your own life. Or into the deep wound of a stranger. Many are bound to sneer at it. They'll say it's "sob stuff"—bad taste. But when fear and heartbreak have come to a whole nation, I can't believe that any comforting measures are "bad taste."

Each morning there are letters on my desk which I dread to open. Letters from young brides whose husbands have been sent suddenly overseas. Letters from frantic mothers whose lives are shattered because their boys have gone. Letters from sweethearts, lovers, friends, husbands, fathers. And there I sit, with my palms growing wet with misery. What can I say—what can I do for this raw agony?

So I have come to feel that there is only one thing I can give and that is a part of myself. My own agony. The night when I, too faced what they are facing now. And what came out of it.

My boy lay dying in a nearby room. My life lay dying with him. The doctors had asked that I should not molest, with my terrible grief, the coma which had blinded his last pain. A friend sat with me throughout the long black hours. But there were no words between us. God—if there was a God—seemed far away. I could not pray. I had no wish with which to face the years . . . no plan that might give me taller strength to live and serve when he was gone.

Then, with the dawn, it came. I know, then, what I wanted . . . the only wish that could help me to go on. And so I prayed—

God, give me strength to love!

Give me strength to love all others boys as I have loved my own.

I do not ask for healing of this pain—

I only ask that I may live and love again.

Let me not flinch from love

Or turn my heart against another mother's son

Because he isn't mine—

Make my heart great enough

To love all love—

And comfort every grief

And share my pain

As I would share the bread and wine of Sacrament.

God, help me live and love.

That was the prayer I prayed the morning that my dear son went away. And that prayer has sustained me through the years. I have not always lived up to its fine, wide plan. The old grief gnaws. But I have yet found nothing better for a stricken heart to pray than that one line—

"God help me live and love."

I know no surer cure for heartbreak than the willingness to live—the hunger to love on.

I know no better way to spend one's shattered life than give to those who need.

I'm neither good nor wise. I've failed so often since I made that prayer. But when I face that pile of pleading letters I can only say—

"God give them strength
"To love and live.
"Even if those for whom
"They lived have gone."

As Others See It

Merely a Suggestion.

Interpreting the War News

Lack of Expected Help Blocked Rommel's Plans In North Africa

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

CAIRO—The Allied position in the Hitlerian theater in both Europe and Africa is good, taking it by and large, as the British Eighth army pushes its thus far successful new offensive against Rommel's harassed army.

As regards this latest sensational drive, reports from the battle front encourage great optimism, but I think we shall do well if we content ourselves with noting successive steps and don't attempt to forecast. After all, no one can foresee with absolute certainty what may happen further ahead in natural defensive positions among huge gullies which this part of the world calls "wadis."

However, it is legitimate for us to take cognizance of the undoubted fact that the Nazi fuehrer's depleted and waning resources are beginning to buckle at the knees under the growing pressure from the United Nations. One of the most significant and hopeful aspects of the situation is that on all fronts the Allies' brotherhood is maintaining the initiative—that priceless essential without which there can be no victory.

In an effort to counter this, Hitler is performing a major operation in the realignment of his fighting machine, but thus far all his moves have been defensive. He's playing for time in the hope it will save him.

Rommel picked the all highest's pumpkins right at fall harvest time when he had expected to hold a Thanksgiving feast. His chief troubles lay in the Caucasus at that moment. Not only had Hitler failed to smash a gateway to fresh resources despite his terrible sacrifice in human life, but the Reds kept counter-attacking so fiercely that he neither could pause to bind his grievous hurts nor spare much fighting strength for operations elsewhere.

Resourceful Rommel during the summer had flung the British Eighth army back clear to El Alamein and was awaiting reinforcements to continue his victorious march across Egypt. He needed warplanes especially—just how badly is now apparent in the light of the disaster which subsequently overtook him.

HOWEVER, Hitler couldn't give Rommel the necessary help. That unbelievable Red army kept battering Hitler with increasing intensity. He couldn't even use airpower to give anything approaching an adequate answer to powerful British and American bombing attacks against occupied European territory and Germany.

I was in London five weeks during that period and not once did a Boche airplane reach the city.

Then, General Sir Bernard L. Montgomery, commander of the British Eighth army, and Allied forces including strong American air units lashed out unexpectedly at Rommel. The Nazi marshal was caught napping and outgeneraled. His defenses cracked and there began one of the greatest routs of the whole war.

The Allied surprise attack on Tunisia which followed placed Axis forces in the jaws of a potential trap. Meantime, British and American air fleets continued to strike heavily at vital Axis industries and communications. There was an intensification of bombing in the Mediterranean area to frustrate Hitler's efforts to send aid to his Africa corps.

Thus we find the fuehrer engaged on all fronts and each Allied operation supplements the others. He is in the unhappy position at the moment of being unable to meet any one of them adequately. He dare not shift much of his weight because that would give his enemy on a weakened front a chance to profit.

AS THINGS STAND, the Nazi chief's greatest immediate concern must lie in North Africa, since he probably figures he can hold the Russian line for the time. Should he be thrown out of Africa, however, it would immeasurably speed the end which already is dogging the heels of another world beater's ambitions. The best he could do would be to dig himself in on the continent and sell his life—or rather the lives of his unfortunate followers—as dearly as possible.

This being so, War Secretary Henry L. Stimson's statement that operations in Tunisia are a month ahead of schedule, although a start has only just been made, comes at a particularly opportune moment in this part of the world.

The secretary's unemotional, straightforward account of the situation has received wide publicity and will afford encouragement to a public which has lacked information how the Tunisian show was going.

Just as Stimson indicated that progress in Tunisia depends heavily on acquirement of air superiority there by the Allies, so it can be said that the entire Mediterranean conflict pivots largely on air power. Happily for the Allies, they have definite superiority in the Libyan end of the North African battle.

Bombardment of Axis communications, including harbors such as Naples, is one of the greatest services that the Allied air forces can perform at this juncture and they are doing magnificent work.

Hitler is dependent on his air and water communications to reinforce his armies in Africa and he is having a sticky job. So long as the Allies can keep those lines crippled, the Nazi chief must fight a losing battle.

The African conflict is, in its essence, one of transport and the Allies are increasingly exploiting the fact that the best place to catch transport and supplies is at the source.

NEW YORK—The Last Roundup:

Dave Wolper, whose career was sketched here about three weeks ago, has added a new chapter. He bought out his partner, James Shean, and now is sole owner of the Hurricane supper club . . . With the emphasis on shortage of male screen stars, RKO is serving up "The Navy Comes Through" in which Jane Wyatt is the only woman cast. I don't get it . . . Genius Inc., is doing well with its mellerdrammer, "Conrad You Dastard," whose $1.10 admission includes beer, peanuts, and the right to hiss the villain . . . Guy M. Bagar, purchasing agent for a lubricating company, says that his new song, "Say, Have You Found Heaven?" was inspired by the rhythm of a planing machine. Elmo Russ, a composer who has a wartime job in the plant, heard snatches of the unwritten melody whistled by various workers. Russ and Bagar got together, worked out the music in full, added lyrics, and there they were with a love ballad which soldiers particularly seem to like.

SPEAKING of music, outside an apartment house near my home I heard two somewhat elderly gents toothing on cornets. They were alternating "Somebody Else Is Taking My Place" with "Maybe." Paid to serenade some damosel, I'll wager a farthing . . . Forty-second street between Fifth and Sixth avenues has several alms seekers who play small pianos and wreezy organs. Sounds good if you don't get too close . . . Hal Saunders, whose band has opened at the Glass Hat, has a harpist, Jane Thomas . . . I still would like to know how magicion Paul Duke does his act—not how he materializes lit cigarets and cigars—but how he keeps them lit in his pockets—if that's the way he does it. Very confusing.

Personal nomination for the night club entertainer dishing up the greatest variety of good stuff: Willie Shore . . . Arthur A. Schmidt, MGM eastern publicity manager, is a new lieutenant commander in the Navy. Don't say: "What, another?" Art is a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy.

BILLIE ROGERS, the congenial brunet from Missoula who plays trumpet for Woody Herman, is only the forerunner of girl musicians who will be in name bands before the shooting stops. . . . And I hope the upcoming girl vocalists turn out to be as pretty as brownette Carolyn Grey, Woody's vocalist from San Francisco. . . . Maxwell Anderson refused a royalty on his Broadway hit, "The Eve of St. Mark," when the play was desired for a soldier-cast camp show at Will Rogers Field, Oklahoma City. Anderson already had allowed 46 colleges ducing rights because he believes college dramatics valuable in producing acting talent. . . . Jack Marshall, the one-man awkward squad from Seminole, Pa., can pick and choose between offers from Warner Bros., Paramount, and Michael Todd, who has approached the comedian about a spot in Todd's next musical. Proving again that nothing succeeds like success.

LIFE'S LIKE THAT

How Christmas Cards Started

By JEAN NEWTON

FROM the day we are born to the day we pass away, life is just one greeting card after another.

Birth, marriage and death, Mother's day, Father's day, Friendship day, St. Patrick's day, Halloween, Thanksgiving and Christmas all of these are attended by the greeting card.

Possibly the meest of them all is the Christmas card, which had its origin in the old school pieces or "Christmas pieces" that were in vogue in the early part of the nineteenth century.

It was the custom then for schoolboys in England, at the approach of the holidays to send off on sheets of writing paper headed with elaborate drawings or scrolls, birds or other appropriate decorations, carefully written greetings that were designed really to show the progress they had made in composition and chirography.

Such greetings gained in popularity, despite the amount of labor involved, which led to their being supplanted by a so-called "Christmas" card. This was originally designed by J. C. Horsley in 1846 for his friend Sir Henry Cole; and by the end of the nineteenth century, the Christmas card had become an institution.

J. C. Horsley was a member of the Royal Academy of England. His work of art bore the inscription "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year." It was about the size of a lady's visiting card which at that time was larger than it is now.

The thing of Horsley's design was criticized by friends of the temperance cause because it represented a merry family party about to drink a toast from wine glasses filled to the brim.

A Farmer's Diary

The Chimney Corner

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

IT INTERESTS me to note that the oldtime furnishings of the Pennsylvania Dutch are becoming stylish. "All things come to him who waits," may perhaps be true. By the time I am ready to build a new house, maybe I can put into it, without seeming queer, most of the fondest memories of my boyhood.

The pioneers who came from Lancaster and York counties, in Pennsylvania, more than a century ago, brought sturdy ideas of building, and planned their homes of durable, plain stone or solid hewn lumber. They built beside a spring, or over one, so that the water flowed through a corner of the basement.

The kitchen was the most important room. Heat in any other room was produced by cast iron ten-plate wood stoves. In the kitchen stood the pleasant, wide-topped cook stove—ours had no reservoir, but the oven was mammoth—big enough for a ten-year-old boy to hide in, if it wasn't hot, and the whim seized him.

The kitchen was large—very large, with a wide stone chimney at one end. Between the wall and this massive stone column, a built-in chest or bench made a wide seat, under which were stored the boots and overshoes, the boot jack, the blacking box and polishing cloths. Here, on cold snowy evenings, my brother and I sat and played until we were sleepy.

The kitchen stove knew nothing but split, seasoned oak and hickory wood, and often the whole top became a rosy red, so that the kitchen had a tropic atmosphere. (Unfortunately, this was true in summer, too.) The steamy wide-lipped teakettle spout became, on a wintry night, a white winged geyser. The small windowpanes were thick with deep-etched fronds of frost. Only under compulsion did we leave our cozy chimney corner, and race up two flights of stairs to the frigid bedroom where stood our trundle bed. When morning came, we went back to the kitchen to dress—to find our hand-knit woolen stockings hung above our well greased metal-topped boots in the warm corner.

From the chimney corner, I watched my mother fry the sausage on butcher day; I saw her make 'souse' in the old dutch oven. From this vantage point, I caught the fragrance of mince pies—saw eight big loaves of homemade bread come out—the hot brown crust ready to crack and steam when rubbed with thick bacon rind. The hard-baked part that overflowed the pan was my favorite bit, liberally spread with homemade butter.

White enameled kitchens are neat, ornamental and efficient—but they don't stir a man's heart, although they may please his pride. "Life is more than meat." Every growing boy . . . every honest man . . . appreciates hearty warmth and color and a great plenty of wholesome flavorful food.

In our new home, I shall hold out for a kitchen chimney corner.

'GOGGLES' AID NIGHT VISION OF U. S. FLIERS

But They're Worn in Daytime To Save Eye Nerves Used Only In Darkness.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Editor)

RANDOLPH FIELD, Tex.—No healthy young man who eats the meals of the army air force has been found lacking in vitamin A. This is the experience of the school of aviation medicine where research on night flying has required night vision measurements.

Giving vitamin A to improve night vision proved useless for the American cadets. So the research department of the school has attacked the problem from a different angle, to enable the boys with the best eyesight to make better use of it at night.

One aid is a new type of American night goggles. They little resemble their name and they are day goggles instead of night. They do not have a glass for each eye, but a large, single windowpane, covering both eyes, the bridge of the nose and a generous margin around those areas.

The glass is red. The wearer can see to read and write. He can see to do anything needed with the instruments in a cockpit. But, due to the red glass shutting out nearly all the short wave-lengths of light, this seeing is done almost entirely with only one of the two sets of human eye nerves. The nerves which are used to see in darkness are left nearly unused by the red goggles.

Ordinarily in going from light to darkness, these night-seeing nerves require about a half hour to reach their best capacity. The night fighter pilot who has been wearing the red goggles for at least a half hour when he enters the area of complete darkness that hides his enemy, removes the goggles. He uses no glasses at all.

So his night seeing nerves are as effecient the moment they come into action as if he already had been looking only at the blackest night for more than 20 minutes.

Good eyes differ greatly in the night-seeing ability. With training, some men learn to see in darkness much better than others.

Another aid to night vision of flyers is breathing pure oxygen. The reasons are still in the theoretical stage, but there is no doubt about improvement. Consequently the night pilots start breathing oxygen the moment they leave the ground, instead of waiting until 5,000 or 10,000 feet.

Night vision for war is all very new medicine. Here they give the boys a little extra good diet, better probably than needed, just as insurance in night vision.

MOST CARS WILL WEAR SAME OLD LICENSE PLATES IN 1943

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The annual gay parade of new automobile license plate colors has gone the way of pants with cuffs for the duration" the American Automobile association announced today but the ingenuity of motor vehicle departments will provide proof of registration through the use of date tabs windshield stickers and even wooden license plates.

As a result of a WPB curtailment order which went into effect March 8 1942 limiting the use of steel for license plates by 90 per cent half the states will use their present plates with the addition of a small tab or strip showing the year date while the other states will use various other means such as windshield stickers plates of wood and other non-essential materials.

This metal conservation program abolishes also the customary color combination changes in license plates and only five states will make color changes for 1943.

Ohio will use the 1942 plates with a sticker for 1943. Illinois will have new plates made of fibre board. Colorado South Carolina and Mississippi will have one new plate for each car.

Wyoming ordered plates before the WPB order was placed on steel and will be the only state with two new metal tags for cars next year.

KEEP OUT THE DRAFTS

DEERING N. H. (AP) — Fuel oil rationing doesn't bring storm window problems to Willie Butleigh, who lives in a house built in 1820. The same inside shutters that once kept out the Indians will serve just as effectively in shutting out cold drafts.

ASHLAND YOUTH CLUB POPULAR

'Jayteen' Movement Proves Success; Has More Than 350 Members.

ASHLAND — (UP) — Jayteen — that's Ashland's unique contribution to the 'happy youth movement' and to all appearances it is both a social and a financial success.

Now in its 10th month of operation, it is a social welfare project that has been met with the whole-hearted approval of the town's teen-aged youths. It is a private club for high school boys and girls, a place where they can gather for recreation in proper surroundings and under proper chaperonage.

Jayteens sponsor, the Ashland Junior Chamber of Commerce, received recognition for the project when it was awarded first prize in national competition as an outstanding contribution to youth welfare.

The Jaycees rented some vacant rooms on Main street, did their own painting and decorating and raised $1,000 cash to get the thing started.

Now there are more than 350 boys and girls who pay $1.50 a year dues for the privilege of going there to dance, play cards and other games, read and relax—but mostly to dance. They can bring young visitors at 10 cents a visit. More than 500 guests have been registered in six months.

The Jayteen is open evenings from 7:15 to 10:15 Monday through Wednesday and remains open an hour later Friday and Saturday. For football game celebrations the club stays open till 11:45.

Besides the dance hall and lounges there is a soft drink bar and the whole project is now self-sustaining.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Ann Corio, one of the leading exponents of the strip-tease art, is organizing a group which she calls "Sweethearts of the A. E. F."

She is rounding up a group of Broadway and Hollywood actresses as charter members of the organization, purpose of which is to "adopt" boys in the armed forces overseas, write letters to them and send at least once a month a package of candy, cookies, cigarets and other gifts. Each member, says Ann, will be assigned a boy by drawing a name from a hat.

ROMMEL'S ARMY CUT IN TWO BY BRITISH DRIVE

the eastern outskirts of Medjez-El-Bab, whence he could see the German positions two miles away.

West of Medjez-El-Bab, King said, the Allies were building up their striking power for a big push to drive the Germans from Tunisia, but he declared this would not be easy.

"The Germans have a big army in Tunisia, including some of their finest fighting units," he wrote. "This indicated the campaign here is no mere delaying action for the Germans and will be the scene of one of Hitler's main efforts to halt the Allies.

"Axis troops have been drawn from all parts of Europe, and many wear decorations won on the Russian front. German reinforcements are being pushed in by transport planes and gliders."

Reds Smash Into Five German Points

MOSCOW—(AP)—The Red army has turned back a force of superior numbers at Verkhne-Kumsky, also known as Kotelnikovski, southwest of Stalingrad, and has smashed into five more German strongholds west of Rzhev on the western front, the Russians reported today.

A dispatch from the Stalingrad front said the triumph at Verkhne-Kumsky came after the Germans, in their waves of counter-attacks, tried to penetrate deeply the Russian defenses on an especially narrow front.

The Axis armies attempting to roll back the flank of the Russian claw south of the Don had hoped to destroy the entire plan of the southwestern Russian offensive, the army newspaper Red Star said, but today the beginning met strong resistance.

"Every effort to obtain their ultimate objective was rejected," the dispatch reported.

Today's early Soviet communique said the Russians turned back 50 tanks and a regiment of motorized infantry in that sector and the midday communique asserted the Red army was forcing its way forward to occupy enemy fortified positions.

Elliott Roosevelt Plots Air Raids

By NOLAND NORGAARD

ALLIED FORCES HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA—(AP)—Lt. Col. Elliott Roosevelt, son of the president, and his pilot, Major Harry Eidson of Indianapolis, have made preliminary flights over every major target chosen for bombing by the United States 12th air force.

Roosevelt is commander of a special photographic reconnaissance group.

It's quite a strain from Major Eidson's viewpoint.

"You've got to hand it to Roosevelt," Eidson explained. "That plane we fly is just big enough for two of us and he is a big man—so big he cannot even wear a parachute.

"You know what that would mean if we got winged. That takes what we politely call fortitude."

Roosevelt himself—already a familiar figure in every Allied airdrome in North Africa—declines to talk much about his own flying.

Nazis Break Up Turin Mass Meeting

LONDON—(ONS)—German troops were called in to break up a mass meeting in Turin called to seek peace after police efforts to disperse the crowd had failed, a dispatch to Reuter's from the Italian frontier reported today.

The Italian population is in a panicky state, particularly in the larger cities where thousands have been evacuated in fear of Allied bombing raids, the dispatch added.

Strict and widespread censorship was reported to have been clamped on all channels of communication — newspapers, magazines, private correspondence and telephone conversations.

Says Nazis Now Run Italian Railroads

LONDON—(AP)—An unofficial but usually reliable source with continental connections said today the Germans had assumed full control of all Italian railroads and ports without consulting the Italians.

The step was decided upon at a meeting of high German officers called by Reichsmarshal Goering in Rome last week-end and put into immediate effect, said this informant.

He said the measure reflected Nazi irritation and impatience over the failure of the Italians to keep their transportaion facilities functioning.

U. S. GETS HOSPITALS

LONDON—(AP)—Health Minister Ernest Brown announced today his ministry had handed over five new hospitals, fully equipped, to the United States army medical services in Britain.

CLEVELAND—(ONS)—Dr. George W. Crile, 78, internationally known Cleveland surgeon, who is recovering from a severe cold in Cleveland clinic is reported in "very good" condition today.

GIVES RULING ON YULE BONUS

WLB Says No Approval's Needed If Size Isn't Increased.

CLEVELAND—(U.P.)—Employers may distribute regular Christmas bonuses without war labor board approval, but only if they are no larger than in past years, WLB Regional Director Lewis M. Gill said today.

"Bonuses may be paid without board approval if in the same fixed amount as last year, or if computed on the same basis," he said.

"The fact that the employer's profits are greater than last year is not a sufficient reason for an increase in the bonus," he said.

COLLEGE WAR PLAN OUTLINED

Army and Navy Reveal System They'll Use To Educate Qualified Men.

gram, the statement said, will be entered with colleges and universities not yet selected. It was emphasized, however, that existing programs with educational institutions for training programs would not be affected. Regulations for selection of the institutions will be drafted by the chairman of the war manpower commission, Paul V. McNutt.

All the men assigned to the college training courses will be uniformed and will receive the pay and be under the military discipline of the regular army, navy, marine corps or coast guard.

The joint statement, summarizing the army's training program, said:

"The object of this plan is to meet the need of the army for the specialized technical training of soldiers on active duty for certain army tasks for which its own training facilities are insufficient in extent or character."

It added that the plan would provide for "selection for this training of qualified young men on a broad democratic basis without regard to financial resources."

"The selection of soldiers for such training," the statement continued regarding the army's phase of the program," will be made from enlisted men who have completed or are completing their basic military training and who apply for selection for specialized training.

The navy's phase differed in providing that high school graduates or those between the ages of 17 and 19 years with satisfactory educational qualifications may be inducted as apprentice seamen or as privates in the marine corps, placed on active duty and assigned to colleges or universities for training.

ON WAY HOME

Congressmen Leave After Two Years of Sessions.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The 77th congress was homeward bound today after almost two years of continuous work during which it inscribed on the pages of history some of the most momentous legislative acts since the nation was born.

Adjournment was taken without fanfare late yesterday with only a handful of members on hand to make and hear the customary hail and farewell speeches.

Most members had left Washington days ago for a three weeks rest before returning on Jan. 6 to launch the 78th congress.

TRIES AGAIN

Convicted Robber Moves for Freedom for Second Time.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Harry Daugherty, serving a sentence in the Ohio penitentiary for robbery of a Newark hotel clerk, made a second attempt today to obtain his freedom through a writ of habeas corpus.

He contended that there is no Licking county journal record of his being sentenced.

Daugherty's previous application for a writ was on the grounds that he was sentenced on a legal holiday.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—Four pedestrians died in separate traffic accidents here yesterday. They were: John H. Sommer, 59, hit by a street car; John Mullen, 58, struck by auto; Robert M. Reuter, 69, hit by bus; and Mrs. Dora Franklin, 50, victim of a hit-skip motorist.

of conditional peace should embrace at least six points. He listed them:

1. Disarmament of the enemy.
2. Designation of provisional national boundaries.
3. Machinery for repatriation of prisoners and civilians.
4. Removal of the economic blockade at the instant of surrender.
5. Immediate organization to combat famine and pestilence and aid in reconstruction.
6. Provisional restoration of all commercial treaties.

"With these minimums," he said, "the world could move forward. There will be a host of gigantic problems to be solved afterwards. . . . And they must be so solved that the dynamic forces in the world which always make for war are extinguished and the forces of peace given strength."

He said some post-war problems "should be separated from each other for solution and each saved on its merits" while others could be dealt with before the war ends and included in the conditional peace.

naval vessels, and Allied planes had rather well wrecked the supply materials brought ashore there on barges and floats.

In the Buna area, there remained for the Australian and American ground forces the task of taking the Buna air strip, eliminating enemy resistance around Cape Endaiadere and wiping out mortar positions, across the bay from Buna.

Hammer Base For Jap Drive on China

By ROBERT P. MARTIN
(By United Press)

WITH AMERICAN AIR FORCES IN CHINA—American bombers today disabused the Japanese of the idea that they could safely use the Gialam air base near Hanoi, Indo-China for a new offensive against China.

This correspondent rode in one of the bombers and he saw blazing gasoline storage tanks and a fired hangar as the planes departed after dropping four and a half tons of demolition, incendiary and fragmentation bombs over the two major hangars, extensive workshops, warehouses and runways.

Gialam is Japan's major link between her Formosa, Singapore and Canton air forces and it would be a pivot in a new drive from Burma into China.

One American fighter plane failed to return and two Japanese interceptors were shot down.

The cockpit of the correspondent's bomber was shot up by zero bullets which narrowly missed the pilots.

MILWAUKEE—(ONS)—Shipbuilding companies in three Wisconsin cities, Milwaukee, Superior and Sturgeon Bay, were under contract today to build 32 of 39 American corvettes, submarine chasers, at a cost of $56,000,000.

Announcement of the contracts was made by W. P. Stoffard, regional director of the Maritime commission at Chicago, who said the 300-foot vessels will be larger than the British and Canadian craft of that type.

ARMY STUDIES SHELBY SITE

400-Acre Tract East of City Being Considered For Huge Air Depot.

with County Recorder D. D. Orewiler.

Capt. Shaw said the army would have to acquire the farms owned by W. L. Morton, Richard Koch, and W. L. Fulmer and raze two barns across the highway from the farms if the Shelby site is chosen.

It was learned from reliable sources today that the government would prefer a site just north of the Mansfield airport, but construction of a depot there would force closing of the airport and removal of its buildings.

J. R. Harrington, airport manager, said army engineers told him they did not want an airport in connection with the supply depot.

The army maintained strict secrecy regarding the functions of the depot and the number of men needed to operate it. Interest shown by engineers in the Shelby housing picture, however, led officials there to believe that a large staff would be stationed at the supply post.

Government engineers have made surveys west, south, and north of Mansfield in recent months and at one time were reported to have decided on a site along U. S. route 30-S east of Galion.

DARLAN PLEDGES FRENCH FLEET TO ALLIED SIDE

Promises Naval Help After He Explains Dealings With Nazis To Save France.

lan replied "Yes, definitely!" to the question "Does Mr. Darlan plan to use the French fleet that is left at Dakar, Alexandria and North African ports against the Axis?"

(Demobilized at Alexandria are the 22,189-ton battleship Lorraine, four cruisers and at least one submarine. At Dakar are the 35,000-ton battleship Richelieu, damaged in 1940; three 7,600-ton cruisers; three destroyers; eight to 12 submarines, and the submarine tender Jules Verne. Among vessels in North Africa are the 35,000-ton battleship Jean Bart, damaged, at Casablanca; various disabled or beached cruisers, destroyers and submarines and three submarines which escaped from Toulon.)

In reply to a question "Does Mr. Darlan recognize General De Gaulle's national committee as representing any part of France," the admiral significantly did not close the door on union between the two French interests but replied:

"I for the present time have no statement to make on the subject but I eagerly wish that all Frenchmen who are able to fight the Axis will do it in close union."

Darlan indicated, however, that he regarded his authority as limited strictly to North Africa and French West Africa.

"Is Mr. Darlan's government to be considered as France's representative to the whole world—that is, does his government represent all the French empire or just North Africa and Dakar?" he was asked.

"For the present the high commission represents North Africa and French West Africa," was the admiral's reply.

Asked whether his government "plans any coalition with other French movements in the world so as to present a united French front to the enemy," Darlan declared:

"My only scheme is to work in complete agreement with the United States of America and Britain and their allies to contribute to the greatest extent to the war effort."

He described as premature a query as to whether it was his plan "as chief of state to establish regular diplomatic relations with his allies, the United States and Britain."

The admiral then was asked this double question:

"Is it Mr. Darlan's intention to hold North Africa in trust for Marshal Petain? In other words, is the imperial council with Mr. Darlan at its head a permanent government or does Mr. Darlan plan to step aside for Marshal Petain when France is free again?"

"I consider the high commissioner's part is to represent French interests as long as France is unable to express freely her opinion that is to say, to give herself the government she chooses," was the response.

In conclusion, the admiral was asked:

"Would Mr. Darlan like to give any explanation of his change of views as expressed a few weeks ago contrasting with his present position on the side of the Allies?"

The man about whose intentions the world has speculated since word first was received that he was in Algiers with the American forces landed there replied:

"The aim of all I did while in the French cabinet was to keep within due limits the power Germany had gained over France and to save all that could be saved in my unfortunate country and its empire. No Frenchman worth that name, and I, in the first place, could willingly submit to German oppression.

"As long as the Allied nations were not ready to help France in resuming the struggle I tried, sad and resigned, to prevent France from dying under the German heel.

"When the Allied forces landed in North Africa I carried out the orders I had received to keep France's word which latter had prevented for 28 months Axis forces from coming to French Africa.

"I gave the cease fighting order as soon as possible. Being disavowed by Vichy I committed myself to the American military authorities so that I should not cause more French and Allied blood to be shed. Then, when Germany broke the armistice, I considered I could once more act freely.

"The so-much wanted hour having struck, I acted as the man who was eventually to take Marshal Petain's place and tried to muster on the Allied nations' side all Frenchmen still able to resume fighting and march on with them against the Axis.

"On Nov. 11, I ordered the fleet in Toulon to cross to Africa so that it should preserve its freedom but on the evening of Nov. 10 the marshal had taken over command of all French military forces.

"The commander-in-chief of the fleet did not listen to what I said. I reckoned that from the pointe Hitler's gangs invaded unoccupied France and broke the armistice it was absolutely necessary to give the fleet and air force orders to leave France to come and reinforce our military organizations in Africa."

PROTEST NAZI JEWISH POLICY

11 Nations Warn Germany of Retribution To Come For 'Bestialities.'

the statement declared.

"They declare that such events can only strengthen the resolve of all freedom-loving peoples to overthrow the barbarous Hitlerite tyranny.

"They reaffirm their solemn resolution to insure that those responsible for these crimes shall not escape retribution and to press on with the necessary practical measures to this end."

The statement said that Jews from all the occupied countries are being transported in conditions of "appalling horror and brutality" to eastern Europe.

"In Poland, which has been made the principal Nazi slaughter house, the ghettos established by the German invader are being systematically emptied of all Jews except a few highly skilled workers required for war industries," the statement continued.

"None of those taken away is ever heard of again. The able-bodied are slowly worked to death in labor camps. The infirm are left to die of exposure and starvation or are deliberately massacred in mass executions.

"The number of victims of these bloody cruelties is reckoned in many hundreds of thousands of entirely innocent men, women and children."

American Jewish organizations last week submitted a report to President Roosevelt which estimated that almost 2,000,000 Jews in Nazi-Europe already have been exterminated through mass murder, planned starvation, deportation, slave labor and epidemic in the disease-ridden ghettos.

The report said that as a result of these combined methods of extermination, the Jewish population of 13 countries of Europe have been reduced by 50 per cent since 1939. The report also declared that the number of Jews in Germany has been reduced from 200,000 in 1939 to 40,000.

BATES TO ASK SECOND LEAVE

will resume, temporarily at least, his duties as police chief here.

Bates said he naturally wants to re-establish his police status through a payroll consideration to insure against technical barriers later to his retirement entitlements. Other police officers now on duty with the FBI are similarly placed, Bates said, and that they have been assured of Civil Service commission cooperation in permitting them to continue with the FBI war effort.

Atty. George W. Biddle, president of the commission, said today that the commission has "made no deal" with Bates and cannot do so. "We have no way of [illegible] what his wishes are and will consider his leave problems as they arise." Biddle explained, however, there will be no barriers placed in his road if Bates, through a new leave request, indicates his desire to continue FBI services during the war emergency.

Fables From The Fifties: Of course all of us remember the year when Thanksgiving day arrived a week ahead of schedule by presidential proclamation. Well this is the story of another holiday and how it came to three young lads, with all its rich beauty and fine sentiment, 14 days ahead of its place on the calendar.

On Dec. 9, in the 52nd street cafe known as Leon and Eddie's, pretty songstress Gloria Hope sang, "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas," and it was appropriate, because outside, on the Street of Swing, the sidewalks were covered with snow. Then the orchestra played "Silent Night" and "Jingle Bells" and "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town," and all the tunes that we learn to love in childhood.

The Christmas spirit was there, in that gaudy night club. You could see it and feel it long before Louis, the headwaiter, brought out a big roast turkey and champagne in a silver bucket and plum pudding and all the festive trimmings that go with the loveliest day of the year.

You see, this was Christmas—a private Christmas for three young sailors who had confided to Leon that they hated the thought of missing Christmas this year the way they had missed Thanksgiving—away off under the hot sun of Africa.

"We don't expect to be here many more days," said the youngest of the three, "so we'll just pretend that tonight is the 25th of December."

The Owl Patrol: Max Cassvan, the well-known European entrepreneur who is opening the new Casbah on Dec. 23, claims that even those spendthrifts who are accustomed to Colony and 21 prices will lift their eyebrows when they see his. Dick Andrade, the fabulous Texan arrived at Penn station very early the other morning, leading a monkey with a cask of brandy around its neck. He was there to meet Henry McLemore, the columnist, who had wired a request for a St. Bernard with brandy. Andrade couldn't find a St. Bernard, but he's resourceful. And the brandy was just as ordered.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—If the movies can't get along today without their dumb comedy cops, it's Fred Kelsey's fault.

He's the cinematic granddaddy of 'em all, having pounded the movie beat for 32 years. You may not know his name, but you are familiar with his face if you've ever been to movies. He's the gruff, white-haired gent with the bushy eyebrows, the sandy mustache, the ruddy jowls. He speaks in a hoarse Brooklynese and invariably clutches a cigar. He is the living picture of the thick-skulled bailiff, and has made a sizable career of it.

Coons

He was a Sandusky, O., boy, who drifted from a position in a wholesale commission house to seafaring on a Great Lakes steamer, then to Broadway and the movies. He became an actor after seeing a show one evening and decided he could do a better job of acting than the ham who was the hero. Leaner and more the romantic type than he is today, he proceeded to demonstrate in such melodramas as "Call of the Wild" and "Human Hearts" for four years. He carried this over into movies, acting and directing stars like Wallace Reid, Harry Carey and Texas Guinan.

Kelsey doesn't remember exactly when he played his first cop, but believes it was in "McCairn Plays Fate," an early Griffith film. One cop led to another, which is the way of the movies, and he began hanging around police stations, chinning with patrolmen and detectives and joining homicide squads on their missions.

His early peace officers and sleuths were serious gents. The buffoonery was added later, and before long he was the comic gendarme. The comic mold was set, more or less permanently, when he played Mulligan in "The Gorilla." Among his subsequent films: "The Lone Wolf," "My Favorite Blond," "In This Our Life," "You Can't Escape Forever." Occasionally he steps from the police station into civilian life—as in "Gentleman Jim," wherein he's the expansive athletic club member.

How to play a cop? "I play them big," he says. "I overplay them. I'm always looking surprised, taking things big and using my hands a lot. I don't just shrug my shoulders—I practically wrench them. I raise my eyebrows and gape at everything. I'm the know-all, see-everything and do-nothing cop, and you can't exaggerate that kind of a thing too much."

BROAD CHANGES PROPOSED FOR CHILD WELFARE

Commission Sets Up Plan To Develop Youth For Duties In Democracy.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The Ohio Children's Code commission today recommended broad changes in Ohio's child welfare laws in a report to Gov. John W. Bricker and Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood.

Appointed Sept. 1, 1941, the non-salaried commission proposed the new general assembly streamline statutes dating from 1913, when Ohio pioneered in child welfare legislation.

"Totalitarian countries have recognized the critical importance of childhood years and have acted upon that realization far more vigorously than the democracies," said the commission.

"Youth programs of the aggressors preparing their youth for a program of destruction must be paralleled in the democracies by youth programs preparing youth for the building of a better world."

The commission recommended that:

The governor appoint a non-salaried 12-member commission, including the state directors of health, welfare and education, to promote adequate care of Ohio's 70,000 handicapped children.

Jurisdiction over feeble minded, epileptic and mentally ill children under 18 years be transferred from probate to juvenile court, with the state financing support of feeble-minded in state institutions instead of the county.

Counties provide a place other than jails for detention of children brought before juvenile or probate courts, through establishment of detention or foster homes.

All foster homes receiving children under 16 years of age, regardless of whether board is paid, secure a permit from the state showing the qualifications of foster parents.

The maximum age limit for public care of crippled children should be raised from 18 to 21 years.

A child of 12 or over should be permitted to choose the guardian or parent with whom to live in case of divorce, or give consent to his own adoption.

Counties be required to create bureaus of child welfare to administer all services to children in public care except services under juvenile court.

STILL DECLINE

Sales Tax Receipts Down In Spite of Yule Purchases.

Brisk holiday buying in Mansfield during the first week of December failed to bring the county's sales tax receipts up to the record figure set last December, the state treasurer's report showed today.

County receipts so far this year total $507,436 as against $670,071 to this date last year.

While Richland county was showing a decline in collections for the week ending Dec. 5, 36 of the 88 Ohio counties reported gains over last year, and the total state collections were approximately $27,000 ahead of the corresponding week of 1941.

RESIGNS SENATE FINANCE HELM

Adams of Bowling Green Gives Up Chairmanship For 'Personal Reasons.'

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS—The state senate committee on committees today sought a new chairman for the powerful finance committee to succeed Sen. Fred L. Adams of Bowling Green, who declined reappointment for "personal reasons" to the position he held during the past four years.

In a letter which evoked reports of executive interference with organization of the senate, Adams yesterday wrote Sen. Lawrence A. Kane of Cincinnati, chairman of the committee on committees, that he was "forced by personal reasons to request your committee to select another member for the chairmanship" of the finance committee.

Don C. Power, Governor Bricker's secretary, denied reports the administration had approached members of the committee on committees to express opposition to reappointment of Adams.

"As in the past, the administration is taking no active hand in the organization of the legislature," Power said. "That applies to the senate finance committee chairmanship as to other legislative offices."

Adams told Kane he was gratified by reports he was to be reappointed, but said that duties on the finance committee in the past two sessions made him neglect other legislative duties.

"I would like to be free to devote my time to the war needs and demands of my district," Adams explained.

COLD WAVE CUTS INTO EAST'S OIL

Mercury Hits 3 Below, Drains Fuel Supplies.

BOSTON—(AP)—As the coldest weather here in nearly eight years—three degrees below zero—cut into New England's waning stocks of fuel oil today, Mayor Maurice J. Tobin proceeded with a plan to utilize school houses as shelters if fuel supplies in homes became exhausted.

While no immediate likelihood of such a contingency was in prospect, city officials said the plan was being set up chiefly as a safeguard for families who use kerosene or range oil for heating.

GOTHAM GETS ITS NEWSPAPERS AGAIN AS STRIKERS RETURN

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—New York's teeming millions had their newspapers at breakfast this morning following early morning settlement of the strike of 3,000 delivery men.

But the move was a temporary one, pending arbitration of the dispute. A war labor board order that the strikers return to work was approved following a stormy meeting of more than 2,500 members of the Newspaper and Mail Deliverers' union.

As late as 11 o'clock last night, rank and file union members avowed that they were not going back to work until the union demands had been met. They contended that the WLB, to whom the dispute had been certified by Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, lacked jurisdiction on such matters.

The temporary agreement was signed at 1 a. m. and, a few minutes later, the trucks began to roll with bodies stuffed to capacity with morning editions.

Certification of the dispute to the WLB followed a break-down in arbitration negotiations which were conducted under the supervision of Arthur S. Meyers, head of the state mediation board. Named as arbiters in the new negotiations are Meyers and Fred C. Croxton federal conciliator.

Workers are seeking a pay boost and freezing of their jobs in event of curtailment of publication.

Eight newspapers were affected by the strike and today's editions were the first available for general distribution since last Sunday.

Up and Down THE STREET

Today's the big day for Prospect school pupils who are waging their final campaign to raise just $46 more in war stamps so that they can buy a jeep for Uncle Sam's Christmas. The "Buy a Jeep" drive was started around Thanksgiving time when several sixth grade boys led by Donald Price built a cardboard jeep which the children resolved would be turned into a real machine by Christmas. Wednesday the total amount raised toward buying the $900 "mechanical kangaroo" was $854. If sales go as they have been, the pupils will reach their goal tomorrow, George W. Taylor, principal, said proudly.

If every copy of The News-Journal's "Pearl Harbor" edition sent to a Richland county service man last Sunday enjoyed the same circulation as did the copy received by Corp. Morris M. Mosberg at Kellog Field, Mich., the edition was pretty widely read. Mosberg wrote a letter to the Richland Victory Civic committee, which sponsored sending the paper to the men in service, saying that he had shown his own copy "all around the field and then sent it on to the paper at Battle Creek to show what a real town is doing in this fight for democracy." He added that "Everyone here at Kellog Air Base is as proud of Mansfield as I am, so I thought you should know."

CURBS ON NEW DEAL REFORMS ANTICIPATED

Taft Hints at Repeal Move on Salary Ceilings and Check on RFC.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats today foresaw a strong likelihood that the new 78th congress will reverse the past tendency to grant "blank check" powers to President Roosevelt.

With the new congress, which convenes on Jan. 6, containing 50 more Republicans than the one which adjourned late yesterday, the balance of power may shift from the administration to a bipartisan coalition.

Whole-hearted support of the war, but a tendency to challenge New Deal reforms and to carefully limit grants of power, was expected to be the guiding spirit of the next congress.

Sen. Robert A. Taft (R. Ohio) said that there is a "good chance" that the $25,000 salary limit order of the president will be nullified by the new congress along with other acts challenged as usurpations of congressional authority.

"I think the new congress will be inclined to grant powers necessary to carry on the war but will be disinclined to grant other unnecessary broad grants of power," said Taft.

"There may be some restrictions on the power to fix prices."

Taft proposed a revamping of the reconstruction finance corporation, which has expanded at a rapid rate as a result of the war and now has borrowing authority of over $14,000,000,000.

"It seems to me we should revamp the RFC so we will know where we stand," said Taft. "There are two or three things in which it is engaged, which seem to me to be beyond its legal power."

While the price control act authorized payment of subsidies to producers only, the RFC is subsidizing transportation, Taft said. He cited the broad range of RFC activities, which includes construction of defense plants, purchase of materials in foreign countries and acting as a substitute for the treasury in financing many government activities.

The RFC issue is expected to be raised early in the next session when a bill to increase its borrowing power by $5,000,000,000 is pressed.

'Human Factor' at Fault as Accident At Mine Kills 4

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(U.P.)—The "human factor" and a hoist operating at an excessive rate of speed was responsible for an accident at the Wyatt Coal company near Laing, W. Va., which killed four men and injured nine others, State Mine Inspector C. L. Milligan said today.

One of the injured, William Green, remained unconscious at a Montgomery hospital and was not expected to live.

The accident occurred when a hoist, which was taking 14 miners from the pit head to the road level suddenly raced 800 feet down a steep hillside.

The men became frightened, Milligan said, and jumped off when the hoist swiftly picked up speed. The men's fright, he said, was the principal cause for the high loss of life.

His investigation showed that an experienced man was operating the hoist at the time of the accident and that all of the mine's equipment was in good condition.

SEXTET GIVES PROGRAM AT SAPPHO MEETING

Members of the Club Furnish Musical Selections for Entertainment at Women's Club; Mrs. Jenkins is Hostess.

A SEXTET consisting of members of the Sappho club provided entertainment for the program, yesterday afternoon, at the Women's Club, which was in charge of Mrs. A. C. Butterfield and Mrs. P. M. Eliot. Mrs. E. C. Jenkins served as hostess.

Included in the sextet were Mrs. Ralph Baer, Mrs. C. E. Reece, Mrs. R. B. Barker, Mrs. D. H. Hughes, Mrs. A. Middleton and Mrs. C. F. Ewing. Accompanied by Mrs. Butterfield at the piano, their first selection was "The Shepherd" by Kountz. "Angels O'er the Fields Were Flying," a French carol, followed.

After Mrs. Eliot read the Christmas story, "The Well of the Star," the sextet sang two carols, "There's a Story in the Air," in which Mrs. Barker and Mrs. Middleton sang the duet, and "Adeste Fidelis."

The next meeting, which is scheduled for Jan 13, will be held at the Women's Club. Hostesses will be Mrs. G. G. Rohleder, Mrs. Middleton, Mrs. J. M. Johnston, Mrs. Garber and Miss Thelma Reed. In charge of the program at that time will be Mrs. Clingan, Mrs. Stevens and Miss Hartmann.

Garden Center Decorations In Holiday Theme

Garden Center decorations for the month of December have been arranged by members of the Mansfield Garden Study club and feature a beautiful frosted window with the Madonna scene executed by Miss Mary Jane Bolus, art teacher at Mansfield Senior high school.

With Mrs. Clarence Lisle as chairman, the club used homemade, old-fashioned decorations on a Christmas tree in the Garden Center. The tree is adorned with cranberries, popcorn, paper chains and cookies. Also in the room there are Christmas arrangements of greens and wreaths. Later in the month a table will be decorated in an "old-fashioned" holiday scheme.

The Garden Center, on the second floor of the Public Library, is open to the public at all times. Club members are in attendance on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

Bible Club Has Christmas Tea

The Christmas tea of the E.S.M. Bible club was held at the home of Mrs. David Reed, College avenue, Tuesday afternon. Devotions were in charge of Mrs. P. E. Decatur. Christmas carols were sung by the group and Mrs. F. J. Ryan gave a talk on "The Mothers of the Bible." Mrs. Decatur reviewed, "Music of the Bible."

Refreshments were served from a table attractively decorated with red candles and a floral centerpiece which carried out the Christmas theme. Mrs. O. H. Maffett served the tea. She was assisted by Mrs. C. Gongwer, Mrs. Floyd Heisler and Mrs. Earl D. Wolfe.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I had lowered my voice almost to a whisper when I spoke Georges' name, even though I knew that the library of the Veritzen suite was sound proof, but at Olga's query my voice rose in excited protest.

"No, no," I exclaimed. "He is very much alive. Please forgive my stupid phraseology!"

Then I remembered the necessity for secrecy, and glanced toward the door of the library.

"Yes, it is closed," Philip answered my mute question, "and I will lock it now. Then we shall be secure from any interruption or eavesdroppers."

"May I not have Marie bring you a cool drink, or perhaps a cup of tea?" Olga asked me.

Madge In Haste.

"Thank you," I answered, "but I couldn't possibly wait for it. I must deliver my message from my father to you—it concerns all three of you—then get back to him as soon as I can."

"Well," Olga yielded, "if you must—" and her husband finished her sentence by locking the door.

"Georges is alive and well," I began, "but was in great danger until an hour ago when he put himself under the protection of my father, who will take him down to the hideaway and keep him there incommunicado. Georges is in the hotel now."

"Georges here under the same roof with us!" Olga said. "Will it be possible for us to see him and talk to him?"

"Olina has seen him," I said, shamefacedly conscious that I was distinctly enjoying my role, "although she doesn't know it yet."

Olina took her cue and artistically registered bewildered surprise.

"Oh, you must be mistaken, Aunt Madge!" she said. "I have seen no one even remotely resembling Georges."

"That is very true," I said, "but do you remember that queer old man in the cafe who annoyed you and Mary by staring at you?"

"You mean he was Georges?" she asked.

"None other," I answered laconically.

"Oh, poor Georges!" she said and I knew her commiseration was sincere. "To think he has to hide behind that disguise! You remember, Mama," turning to her mother, "I told you about the old man in the cafe in what Mary called a Father Christmas masquerade, who kept staring at Mary and me as if he knew us?"

"Yes, yes," Olga answered. "And so that was Georges! I should have guessed, for Olina told me he had come up and spoken to you Madge, and that later you talked with him at his table. But I supposed, as Olina did, that he was only someone connected with your father, and I did not think of it again."

"Not enough even to tell me about it," Philip Veritzen said.

"Forgive me!" Olga pleaded with the smile which always disarmed the austere Philip.

"You are pardoned," her husband said, smiling at her. "But Madge," as she turned to me, with the trace of reproach always in his voice when his royal wife has been kept waiting, "you have not yet answered Olga's question. Will it be possible for us to see Georges and talk to him?"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

COUNT SUIT LENGTHS

Asking yourself questions and giving yourself the best possible answers at each stage of the bidding and play there is one of the best ways to become a good card-reader. For instance, if your partner opened the auction with a No Trump, and you know therefore he did not have five cards of either major suit, you can easily place the declarer with at least some certain number of them after you see the dummy.

	♠ 7 5 3 ♥ 10 ♦ J 10 9 6 2 ♣ A K Q 10

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2 ♥	2 ♠	3 ♥	3 ♠

Wisely preferring to play against this, rather than try 4-Hearts, West opened with his heart 4 to the A. East did some very careless quick thinking and led his diamond 4, with the idea he might get a third round ruff. But South came in with the A, ruffed his heart 7 with the spade 3 and laid down dummy's four clubs, discarding two diamonds from his own hand. West ruffed the last of these with his spade 9 and fired back the diamond K, which South trumped. The heart J was then ruffed with the spade 5. West then got two tricks with the spade tenace, but South made his 3 Spades safely.

East should have been more thoughtful when he won that heart lead with the A. Since his partner had no high clubs, he must have held strong spade honors, which could well be led up to, but not from. Also, he surely did not have more than four hearts, or he would have bid the suit to start with instead of No Trumps. Hence South had at least three hearts which he would want to ruff.

If East had figured that way, his spade return to the second trick would have enabled West to take out all three of the dummy's trumps, preventing any heart ruffs. South would have had four losers left then in his red suits, and could have discarded only two of them on clubs, having to lose two more tricks in addition to the three already taken. Thus the contract would have been set beyond peradventure of a doubt.

POSTMASTER NAMED

MILLERSBURG—James A. Anderson had been confirmed today by the senate as postmaster at Millersburg after President Roosevelt had nominated him, a news dispatch from Washington said.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, December 18.

While this should prove to be a very lively and progressive day yet it may be beset by certain difficulties, confusions and intrigues, which take shrewd sagacity and insight to offset. There is little promise of any assistance from higher-ups or those in public prestige, although elders may prove more cooperative.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a lively and progressive year, although there will be little approval or support from superiors or those in public positions. Some elderly relative may be more friendly or old institutions may be ready with advice and approval.

A child born on this day may have splendid talents, with sterling traits of character, although at times it may be carried away by emotional outbursts.

Notes to Parents May Prove Harmful

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

From many a parent I receive letters which reveal that the teacher writes them notes about children's unsatisfactory work at school hoping, presumably, that the parents at home will immediately change the children's work at school.

Dear Dr. Myers: This is the note my son's teacher sent home. What can I do to help?

"Louis' work is improving but he must grow in ability to work independently if he is to be ready for third grade. It takes constant urging and coaxing to get him to do his work. If not constantly supervised he marks his work book any place or any way and is through in about three minutes, with the work all wrong. He must learn to make it his responsibility."

Please advise me in the enclosed stamped and self-addressed envelope.

Harmful to the Child.

We wonder just what this teacher expected the mother to do about the matter. Did she have in mind that the mother should practice the child at home in the use of his work book? Did she believe the mother by commanding and scolding the youngster at home could make him do his work well at school?

Such notes do the child more harm than good, as a rule, unless followed immediately with a visit by the teacher for a conference with the parents.

The teacher should try to ascertain whether anything in the child's program or treatment at home might contribute to his dawdling at school.

The Teacher's Problem.

The immediate problem is the teacher's. She should find out by studying the child right in school everything possible to help explain his problem together with any light she might get on his emotional background at home. Has she seen to it that the child has had expert examination of his hearing and vision? Does she see to it that he goes to the playground and gets into the regular play there?

In writing the mother, I advised her to go to the teacher, exercising the finest social grace she could, but prevail on this teacher to take chief responsibility for the child's learning problems. She should assure the teacher she will cooperate in any way she can, other than to scold or punish the child for his difficulties at school.

"Home Helps for Poor Readers" (Part I for the first four grades; Part II, for upper grades and high school levels) may be had without cost by writing me in care of this paper enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Waffles Right To Serve on Wintry Days

By BETSY NEWMAN

Waffles have been popular for years. We serve them for winter breakfasts at our house, accompanied by tiny pork sausages or bacon. They make nice desserts too, so I'm giving you two recipes to use at any time you feel the family is waffle hungry. This is a luncheon or supper menu.

Today's Menu.

Cream of Spinach Soup
Crackers or Toast
Celery and Carrot Sticks
Plain or Ginger Waffles
Milk Tea

Cream of Spinach Soup.

1 cup cooked spinach
1 teaspoon grated onion
3 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespsoons flour
1 teaspoon salt

Plain Waffles.

2½ cup sifted flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening, melted
3 eggs, well beaten
1½ cup milk
